ADVANTAGES OF THE SOCIETY.
ALL the PROFITS belong to the Members.
It is a COLONIAL INSTITUTION, on the model of the most successful British Offices; while from the much higher rate of interest it obtains on its investments, more profitable returns are secured to its members than the best European Offices can afford. Thus, at the Investigation of March, 1854, all policies then entitled to participate were increased by Bonus Additions averaging considerably more than three per cent. per annum on the sum assured, or about THREE TIMES those secured by the most liberal British joint-stock companies.
BONUSES may be applied to the extinction of future premiums, or their value in cash may be handed to the member.
SURRENDERS accepted on equitable terms.
GENERAL FACILITIES with regard to voyaging, residence abroad, &c.
PREMIUMS payable yearly, half-yearly, or quarterly.
LOANS on policies on favourable terms.
CLAIMS payable three months after proof of death.
ALL ITS POLICIES are protected against the operation of the Insolvent Laws, after a certain term, on a gradually increasing scale.
POLICIES effected by married women are protected against the debts and control of their husbands.
THE FAMILIES OF SMALL ASSURERS are saved the expense of letters of administration.
PROSPECTUSES, forms of proposal, and every information may be obtained from any of its agents in New South Wales, and in the other colonies, or at the principal office, from ROBERT THOMSON, Actuary and Secretary, Hunter-street.

Accumulated Funds and Capital paid up, exceeding 1,088,000
Of which £130,000 is invested in the colony, in Government and other securities.
Reserve Surplus Fund, £214,000—with unlimited liability of the shareholders.
The Directors continue to grant Policies of Insurance in both departments of the Company's business upon terms which will be found as liberal as those of any other office.
The fact of this Company having, since its establishment in 1836, paid claims exceeding One Million Sterling, (£1,000,000), those during 1857 exceeding £200,000, is the best guarantee that can be offered of its liberality; whilst its enormous annual income, £480,000, and its large amount of accumulated funds, exceeding One Million Sterling, (£1,000,000,) together with the unlimited liability of the shareholders, are the best proofs of its stability.
Tables of rates for Fire and Life Insurance, in all its branches, and every information, can be obtained from
A. STANGER LEATHES, resident secretary.

ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF LIVERPOOL. Messrs. SMITH, CROFT, and CO. having resigned the Sydney agency of the Royal Insurance Company of Liverpool, the Directors have appointed the undersigned to act as their agents in and for Sydney. LAIDLEY, IRELAND, and CO. Sydney, October 23.

ROYAL FIRE AND LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF LIVERPOOL AND LONDON.
Capital—£2,000,000.
The undersigned beg leave to inform their friends and the public that, having been appointed Agents to the above Company, they continue to receive orders for Assurances, and desire to draw attention to the remarkable proofs of the sound principles of the establishment for which they act, and of its ample resources.
The amount of the capital of this Company which would be immediately available to meet any unforeseen calamity—the well-known character of its directors—the high respectability of its proprietors—and the standing which it takes among the large insurance establishments of the British Empire, enable it to rank with the most eligible offices now in existence, either in Europe or Australia, with respect to the advantages offered to the public.
FIRE DEPARTMENT.
The character which the Company has obtained for liberality in its payment of losses is very marked. The prompt settlement of losses incurred by the great fires during the past years, has practically shewn the character which this company has ever maintained throughout the whole world under this head. It will only be necessary to add here that the Agents can with confidence announce to their fellow-citizens that they may feel assured that every legitimate claim will be immediately settled.
RATES OF PREMIUM.
CLASS 1.—Brick or stone buildings, slated, metal, or shingled roofs, occupied as dwelling or counting-houses only, from 2s. 3d. to 5s. 9d. per cent. per annum.
CLASS 2.—Brick or stone buildings, slated, metal, or shingled roofs, occupied for storing merchandise, or for purposes of trade, from 3s. 9d. to 7s. 6d. per cent. per annum.
Losses adjusted and paid in Sydney.
LIFE DEPARTMENT.
The important advantages afforded by the Company in this branch will include the following, viz.:—
GUARANTEE of an AMPLE CAPITAL, MODERATE PREMIUMS, Large Participation of PROFITS by the ASSURED, amounting to TWO-THIRDS of NET AMOUNT, small charge for Management,—the expenses of the office being borne in due proportions by the two branches, and EXEMPTION of the ASSURED from the LIABILITY of PARTNERSHIP.
ADDITIONAL ADVANTAGES offered to Lives assured with this Company.
Lives assured with this Company may reside within the limits of Australia, south of 25 degrees south latitude, Tasmania and New South Wales, to each of which they may travel and sojourn in, with liberty to proceed in steamboats and decked vessels (if not seafaring by profession) to and between any ports in the above colonies.
Life claims can be settled in the colony without reference to England,
LAIDLEY, IRELAND, and CO., Agents, Lloyd's Chambers, 384, George-street, Sydney.

ROYAL INSURANCE COMPANY OF LIVERPOOL.—The undersigned have, THIS DAY, resigned the Sydney Agency of the Royal Insurance Company of Liverpool. The business of the agency will in future be conducted by Messrs. LAIDLEY, IRELAND, and CO., who have been duly appointed by the Directors of the Company to act as their agents in and for Sydney.
SMITH, CROFT, and CO. Sydney, 23rd October.

DERWENT AND TAMAR MARINE ASSURANCE COMPANY.
SYDNEY BRANCH.
Ships insured in this Company are warranted free from average under five pounds per cent., unless general.
Claims for losses or average are payable by the Company at three months after settlement of the same.
Claims for loss or damage are made payable in London if required, policies for the same being granted in triplicate.
Offices, Sydney Exchange, and Patent Slip Wharf, Sussex-street, where applications for insurances will be received. TOWNS and DARLEY, agents.

PROSPECTUS of the NEWCASTLE WALLSEND COAL COMPANY.
Capital—£100,000,
In Ten Thousand Shares, of £10 each.
PROVISIONAL COMMITTEE:

Alexander Campbell, Esq.	Charles Kemp, Esq.
Henry Dangar, Esq.	Michael Metcalfe, Esq.
S. D. Gordon, Esq., M.P.	M. E. Murnin, Esq.
Samuel Hebblewhite, Esq.	Saul Samuel, Esq.
Clark Irving, Esq.	John Williams, Esq. (Mayor)

The large consumption of coal in this and the adjacent colonies, the increasing demand for fuel which the wants of these growing communities, with the extension of colonial railways, and the rapid increase of steam enterprise, must necessarily create, together with the conviction that the present sources of supply will very shortly be found quite inadequate to meet the increased demand, have induced the projectors to embark in the present undertaking.
The property selected for the operations of the Company consists of an estate of 560 acres in fee simple, free from royalty, which has been purchased from Mr. A. Brown for £25,000, conditional on its being satisfactorily demonstrated that the several coal seams therein are as represented, and for which purpose an expenditure not to exceed £3000 has been determined upon.
The land is situated in the very centre of the Newcastle coal district, and adjacent to the Great Northern Railway, with which it is intended to connect the mines by a short branch of about two miles, at a point within six miles of the coal wharf at the shipping port of Newcastle.
The land has been carefully examined and explored by competent Mining Engineers. Trial pits have been sunk, and in all of them coal has been found of very superior quality, in seams of extra thickness, and freedom from partings, and at depths peculiarly favourable for economical working, as the following extract from a report by a practical experienced Mining Engineer will show:—
"I have carefully examined the borings of the 7 foot 10½ inch coal seam, and consider it quite equal in quality to the A. A. Co.'s best bore hole coal. Its extra thickness and freedom from partings will enable the coal to be delivered at pit top as cheap as any in the Newcastle district. A railway along the flats bordering on Ironbark Creek could be made to join the Great Northern Railway at a point less than six miles from the Newcastle coal shoots. No. 3 trail pit being sunk on the northwest point of the land, and the minerals having a tendency to dip south, there is every reason to expect that the coals will be found under all parts of the property. The coal seams found here are most likely the equivalents of the Lake Macquarie, Minmi, and Platts' Farm coals. I should consider that the 7 foot 10 inch seam will yield about 8000 tons of available coal per acre. Good pit timber abounds on the property. In conclusion, I may state that I have not seen any lands about Newcastle giving richer signs of valuable coal seams."
Although the nominal capital has been fixed at £100,000 it is estimated that less than two-thirds that amount will be sufficient for the purchase of the land, construction of the Railway, payment of bonus shares to projectors, procuring rolling stock, and all necessary mining plant, putting the mine into working order, and providing ample working capital.
It is intended that an application be made to the Legislature for an Act of Incorporation, limiting the liability of the shareholders, and it has been considered advisable to fix the capital at the amount stated, so that the Company may be able to extend its operations if desirable.
Mr. A. Brown retains a large interest in the Company, and the committee have the pleasure to announce that this gentleman, who was formerly coal viewer to the A. A. Company, and whose practical knowledge of, and success in, coal mining are well known, has consented to take the management of the works at Newcastle until the mine is in full working order.
The capital required will be called up at intervals of not less than three months.
Applications for shares to be addressed to A. ASHDOWN, Esq., Secretary pro tem., at No. 27, Terry's-buildings, Pitt-street, until 12 o'clock a.m. on MONDAY, November 15th instant, and who will give any information to applicants.
Printed forms of application can be obtained at the offices, as above, between the hours of 10 and 1 o'clock daily.

DIRECTORS:—
JOHN FAIRFAX, Esq., CHAIRMAN
S. D. GORDON, Esq., M.L.A., DEPUTY-CHAIRMAN.
RICHARD JONES, Esq., M.L.A.
T. C. BREILLAT, Esq.
THOMAS HOLT, Esq.
M. E. MURNIN, Esq.
Surveyor—JAMES HUME, Esq.
Secretary—Mr. JOSEPH DYER.
Office: the corner of Hunter and Pitt streets, opposite the HERALD Office.
The subscribed capital of the company is £250,000, with power to increase the amount to meet the business of the company.
The liability of the shareholders is unlimited.
This company was established in order to prevent all the profits arising from Fire Insurance business passing into the hands of the proprietors of English companies, and thus being entirely lost to the colony. Since its establishment, three years since, the rates charged for fire insurance by all the offices have been diminished more than 25 per cent., and thus some thousands per annum have been saved to the colony. The company has regularly paid a dividend of 10 per cent. per annum on the paid up capital. It has satisfied losses by fire to the amount of £13,000, and has now in hand a reserve fund of £15,875 10s. 6d., over and above the paid up capital. The rates of insurance are as low as those of any of the English Companies; they are as follow, and no alteration is made except there are circumstances calculated to increase the risk.
Buildings—metal or slated roof, stone or brick, 2s. 3d., and upwards.
Buildings—shingled ditto, ditto ditto, 3s. 9d., and upwards.
Wooden Buildings, metal or slated roof, 8s. and upwards.
Wooden ditto, shingled, special.
Agents are appointed in every considerable town in the colony.
N.B.—There is no exemption made in the above company from payment of losses occurring through bush fires, country properties being insured against such casualties.

EDUCATION.—CAMPBELLTOWN SCHOLASTIC ESTABLISHMENT.—The Rev. JOHN GIBSON intends opening a boarding and day school at the late residence of the Rev. Mr. M'Kee, commencing on MONDAY, November 15th.
Campbelltown is beautifully situated and easily accessible by rail; the locality is considered to be singularly healthy, and scarcely to be surpassed in the colony. The domestic arrangements of this establishment will be liberal and complete, and the education imparted will be in every way adapted to the requirements of the times.
Mr. Gibson will also educate a select number of young ladies in the usual branches of a sound education, including French, music, and all kinds of fancy work.
Terms:—For day scholars, £2 10s per quarter; and for boarders, £45 per annum.
Referees:—Rev. W. Cuthbertson; Rev. S. C. Kent; Rev. T. Arnold; Hon. D. Jones, Esq.; J. H. Houlding, Esq.; and John Row, Esq.

NOTICE—RICHMOND ROAD TRUST.—The Commissioners of this Road Trust will, on WEDNESDAY, the 1st day of December next, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon precisely, cause the tolls, to be collected during the year, commencing on the 1st of January next, at the Toll-gate, Blacktown Road, to be LET, by public auction, at Mrs. Seymour's, Black Horse Inn, Richmond.
The lessee, and two responsible persons, to be approved of by the Commissioners, will be required to enter into a bond in double the amount of the rent, and also, if required, a warrant of attorney, for the due observance and performance of all the conditions of the lease, and punctual payment of the rent, by equal monthly instalments, within seven clear days from the commencement of each month. The upset price of the tolls will be £60.
All further information will be furnished on application to the undersigned, at his office, George-street, Windsor.
WILLIAM WALKER, Secretary to the Trust.
November 13th, 1858.

WE, the undersigned Frenchmen, passengers by the General Windham from Rockhampton, wish publicly to thank the authorities of the above place for their extreme kindness to us under the following painful circumstances. One of our mates, Leonard Depuis, was accidentally drowned while shooting; we, not knowing what had become of him, applied to the police, when the chief immediately gave orders for the man's search; he was found two days after he was missed, and a cart despatched from the camp for the body; it was afterwards buried at the Government expense. We wish to make this publicly known, because we feel ourselves under great obligations for the willing manner we were assisted, and with such civility and politeness we diggers are not in the habit of receiving.
Signed by, and in behalf of their ten mates,
MESGOLIER BERNARD,
AUGUSTE RENAUD.

WINDSOR.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

MUNICIPAL CORPORATION.—A movement has been made to obtain an expression of public opinion on this subject. Mr. Walker, solicitor, at the instance of some of the inhabitants, applied to the bench for, and obtained, the use of the court-house on Thursday evening next, for the purpose of holding a public meeting. We trust a full attendance will be given, and that all the pros and cons of the matter will be stated and duly considered.

POLITICAL.—Our borough has, since the late Ministerial crisis, been in expectation of the probability of being prematurely thrown into an election, under the supposition that the Solicitor-Generalship would be offered to, and accepted by, our member. We are able confidently to state that, had such been the case, a most vigorous opposition would have been made to the learned member's re-election.

COURT OF REQUESTS.—Upwards of 100 plaints in the £10, and 19 in the £30, jurisdiction, have been entered for trial at the ensuing sittings here, on the 25th and 26th instant.

The weather has been rather unsettled of late, and to some extent has retarded haymaking operations. It has commenced raining heavily this evening (Saturday), with every prospect of a continuance. The hay crop is a very abundant one this year.

LOWER MURRUMBIDGEE.

[FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.]

OCTOBER 23.—FLOOD ON THE MURRUMBIDGEE.—Again may we be thankful for the occurrence of that annual blessing—the flood, which has now poured down, and still continues to pour down a bountiful supply of water. Our floods not depending in the slightest degree on local rains, which, in this flat country, seldom leave any large amount of water, but, on the melting of the snow on the Maneroo ranges, considerable anxiety is felt every year as to the probability of heavy freshes coming down, as being situated so far from the source of the water, we have to depend on hearsay for information concerning the amount of snow lying on the hills. On two or three occasions there has been no flood here, owing to the small quantity of snow deposited on Maneroo during the winter proving insufficient when melted to swell the river to any considerable extent, and, consequently, no additional water reached this part of the country. The Murrumbidgee, after coming up very gradually during the last three months, made, last week, several rapid rises, and at last overflowed its banks. All the tributary creeks are now full of water, and the many numerous, extensive lagoons and billybongs, which form such marked objects in this locality, are again abundantly supplied from the river. Fears were already beginning to be entertained of a deficiency of pasturage during the coming summer, as the herbage was commencing to look much burnt, the polygonum bushes were very dead, and the salt bush had obtained a very withered appearance. The large amount of water now scattered over the land in all directions will have the most salutary effect, both on the herbs and bushes, and will be the means of affording plentiful feed for all the stock for some months to come. The flood, whilst it confers the greatest benefit on the graziers, causes considerable inconvenience to travellers, as the roads are constantly crossed by very deep creeks, none of which have as yet been bridged, so that journeying along the main road is now impossible, and it is found necessary to keep a long way off from the river. It has long been almost universally admitted, that Lang's is the only really good spot on the Lower Murrumbidgee for a main crossing-place, although, up to the present moment, the Government have not taken any steps to accommodate the public by proclaiming it as a public thoroughfare. This flood has proved, more than ever, that Lang's is the place, as mobs of fat cattle and wool teams, after making vain efforts to cross the river at other spots lower down, have been forced to go there at last, as the only locality where a safe crossing-place could be found.

FLOOD ON THE LACHLAN.—The channel of the Lower Lachlan having been entirely devoid of water for some months past, and the summer commencing its approach, much dread was reasonably entertained that, as soon as the hot weather set in, there would be such a scarcity of water, that it would be found necessary to remove all the stock. Just, however, as the settlers began to be quite out of heart at the sad prospect before them, a splendid fresh came down, and not only filled the channel of the Lachlan, as far down as Tyson's station, but also spread much water over the flat country. The Lachlan country, as is well known, has been in a dreadful state during all the past season, and this running of the Lachlan will be hailed with equal delight, both by overlanders and settlers, as in the absence of this water, it would have been totally impossible to travel stock by that route, until the lapse of a considerable period of time. The extensive reed beds near the junction of the Lachlan have just been burnt, in anticipation of the water from the river flooding them and causing a plentiful crop of young reeds, which serve as food for cattle, and are of a very fattening nature. These beds when on fire caused such an extensive conflagration, that it was plainly visible, under a bright sun at mid-day, fifteen miles off; and at night a long range of bright fires, extending for two or three miles, presented a very pleasing, although somewhat alarming, appearance.

SNAKES. — These reptiles are almost unusually numerous in this early part of the season, and the flood having disturbed many of them from their accustomed haunts, they have fallen into the presence of their enemies, and have been slain without any mercy. A great number have already been killed in this locality, many of them of the most venomous descriptions. A shepherd's dog, whilst heeling some cattle, was last week bitten by a snake, and died in a very short time.

BALRANALD POUND.—This pound, which formerly seldom had any tenants, has, under the management of the new keeper, been made of some use. One hundred and forty head of cattle were lately to be seen in the yards at one time, and others have since been pounded. The first sale was to take place this week.

SUICIDE.—On Sunday last the body of a man, in an advanced stage of decomposition, was found lying on the open plain, about a mile from Oxley, a station belonging to Messrs. J. L. and J. J. Phelps, on the lower part of the Lachlan. By the side of the corpse lay a gun and a long stick, with a piece of cord, one end of which was attached to the trigger of the gun, and the other to the end of the stick. From the position in which the body rested, it is presumed that the man must have shot himself by placing the muzzle of the gun against his heart, holding the stock firmly with his feet, and pulling the trigger by means of the stick attached to the string, he himself lying down during the dreadful performance. The corpse was so decomposed that it could not be discovered what amount of injury the bullet had caused—in fact, handling the body just to place it in a grave dug on the spot was found to be a most disagreeable occupation. The deceased was recognised as a man employed at the Oxley shed as a wool presser who, having on the previous Sunday borrowed a gun on pretence of going duck shooting, had not since been seen, and was therefore presumed to have decamped with the gun. No reason whatever can be assigned for this rash act.

REDFERN MUNICIPALITY.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—From an advertisement which appears in your issue of to-day, I perceive that it is intended to hold a public meeting of the inhabitants of Redfern to-morrow (Tuesday) in St. Paul's school-room, Redfern, for the purpose of appointing a committee to draw up a petition for the incorporation of the above. It appears to me somewhat singular that the meeting should be called in "St. Paul's schoolroom," which is not situated in Redfern, but in the city of Sydney, and completely away from the great bulk of "the inhabitants of the Hamlet." One would have thought that the meeting should have been called at some place near the centre of population, so that all interested might have conveniently attended. At all events, it does not look well that a meeting for such a purpose should be called out of the locality for the presumed benefit of which it is convened. The bulk of the householders reside in the upper part of Redfern and on the Waterloo Estate, which latter ought assuredly to be included in the municipality; and it may be very inconvenient for many of them to go so far as St. Paul's school-room. The majority of the people residing in the neighbourhood I have alluded to are small freeholders and leaseholders; and, if a Municipal Council is established, it is to be hoped it is for their benefit, as much as for the benefit of the large proprietors whose property happens to be in the vicinity of St. Paul's school-room. The fact of the meeting having been called at this place looks like an attempt to exclude the small freeholders, and tenant householders, and the leaseholders from any share in the matter; and it is so regarded by several with whom I have spoken. I trust, however, that the people from the Waterloo Estate, and other parts of the Hamlet, will be in attendance, and see that some members of the proposed committee are elected from among themselves.

Redfern, November 15 A RESIDENT.

THE COMET.

No. 2.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—In the concluding part of this letter are contained the results from half-hourly observations made on the present comet, when the weather permitted. The measurements were taken from three stars of the first magnitude, viz., a Centauri, a Aquilæ, and a Piscis Australis. As the apparent path of the comet has been within the triangle formed by these stars, the observations were easily freed from all the errors that the sextant is liable to. The stars were in all cases brought down to the comet when they were taken.

As this comet has not been brilliant enough to be visible in daylight, and is considerably south of the celestial equator, we may conclude that it has not been visible in the greater part of Europe, and that it has only been seen in other parts above the horizon, for a short period.

Mr. Scott, however, says, that "All doubts respecting the true orbit of this comet, will probably be cleared up by the next mail from England, and in the mean time, possessing no instrumental means of determining the comet's position with accuracy, I can expect no greater weight to be attached to my remarks than to those of any amateur astronomer similarly situated." Now, for my part, I think it much more probable that the next mail will bring Mr. Scott an urgent request from the Astronomer Royal, or from some other eminent European astronomer, for all the data which he has been so well situated to obtain here concerning this comet.

Again, is it not very well known that, in the absence of very expensive instruments such as the altazimuth circle, a simple sextant is very frequently used, and is recommended by the Astronomer Royal as a most convenient and accurate means of obtaining a comet's apparent path; his own words on this point are,—"The distance of the comet from three conspicuous stars in different directions must be measured with the sextant. The point of the comet which is observed with the sextant should be precisely described," &c. The accuracy of any observations made can be trigonometrically tested with such ease that no doubt can exist about their accuracy; therefore, had Mr. Scott made the best use of the bad tools at his command, he would probably have satisfied the amateurs of this colony; but he seems to have given up the rare chance afforded him, and contents himself by waiting for the information he expected from England.

Your Windsor correspondent is quite correct as to the error in my right ascension, but I cannot agree with him that the coincidence of the longitude of the node of this with that of any other comet is in any way remarkable. The agreement of one (or even more) element of two orbits is not of the slightest value as regards their identification, unless there is a corresponding agreement in the remainder. Mr. Ellery, of Williamstown, in Victoria, who is closely connected with the Observatory there, arrives at the same conclusion, based on the agreement of one element and the motion, and, strange to say, adds that the "size and appearance of the comet are the same," and from these appearances he concludes "that it is no other than the comet of 1556." It is hardly necessary to say that this opinion is not only unscientific, astronomically speaking, but ridiculous, as surely we all know that comets not only change their forms, magnitudes, and appearances, but even change their orbits materially when seen a second time in perihelion. Take the comet (Halley's) of 1835, for an example.

The hypothesis of a resisting medium, such as a luminiferous ether, for instance, beautiful as it is, cannot consistently be applied suddenly to bodies when we wish to account for a certain apparent effect, the cause of which, however, is unknown; neither can any other causes, such as perturbations, &c., be applied to one apparition of any comet, as any, and, indeed, all, resisting and attracting forces of whatsoever kind, must be supposed to have existed from the beginning of creation, and, therefore, to have affected all bodies at all periods.

The length of the tail of this comet has been variously stated to be from 4 degree to 10 degrees in length, but it must be evident that different observers would give different results on this point, as the tail diminishes so imperceptibly that it is difficult to say exactly where it terminates; the greatest length, however, did not exceed 10 degrees.

The elements from my observations are as follows—

Perihelion passage, 1858	Sept. 2, 2h. 4m.
Inclination	69 30
Longitude of ascending node	170 50
Longitude of perihelion	4 10
Log. of perihelion distance	9.95
Direction of motion	R.

The comet has of late passed over a very starry part of the heavens: on the evening of the 7th, at 8h. 5m. the coma passed over a telescopic star which certainly appeared to be eclipsed.

It will probably be visible to the naked eye for a fortnight longer (a practised eye), and in a good instrument, with plenty of light, for perhaps six weeks to come.

I remain your obedient servant,
H. A. SEVERN.

Neutral Bay, November 10th.

P.S.—The observations, as the Astronomer Royal requests, have been sent to the Admiralty.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—On re-examining the work, the results of which I sent to you on October 8th, I am led to conclude that the following are more nearly the elements of the comet's orbit:—

Perihelion passage, October 9th, 2h.53m., Greenwich mean time.

Longitude of perihelion	9 42 6
Longitude of ascending node	165 48 40
Inclination to ecliptic	53 12 45
Perihelion distance	617204.
Heliocentric direction, retrograde.

I do not, of course, suppose that these are of any real value, beyond, perhaps, enabling us to infer the identity of the comet with one previously observed.

I still think that it is Donati's, and certainly not the comet of 1556.

In answer to a question which has been frequently asked in Parramatta, and doubtless elsewhere, viz., why has Mr. Scott not said more about the comet?—I may venture to reply that, knowing as he does the little reliance to be placed in calculations respecting comets, which do not proceed from most accurate data, I think that he very wisely refrained from wasting his time, and, possibly, bringing discredit on the Observatory in consequence of his having no instruments adapted to taking the necessary observations.

I am, Sir, &c., &c.,
H. S. HAWKINS.

PADDINGTON POST OFFICE.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—Not many days ago you allowed me to claim publicly, on behalf of Paddington, "the daily delivery of letters," an advantage that had been long enjoyed by suburbs less populous and more distant from the central office.

You admitted my complaint a second time, and, finding it unheeded, I was about to trouble you and your readers a third time with a sharper remonstrance against, what seemed to me, mere postal sluggishness and injustice; news came, however, that the Colonial Secretary had taken the matter in hand, and that at his instance, and without any solicitation, personal or epistolary, Paddington was to have its rights! Thanks to this gentleman, Paddington now has this daily delivery, and four other suburbs come in for a participation in the same advantage. Doubtless some share of them is due to the Postmaster-General, but he would reject the offer; indeed, he is evidently out of humour with us, for, though Paddington holds the highest rank as regards population, according to the estimate of the Legislature, this functionary places it last on his list—as witness the Proclamation of 28th October, announcing the daily delivery from 1st November at the Glebe, Camperdown, Newtown, Redfern, Paddington.

But as this may have occurred through accident rather than design, let us be thankful also to the Postmaster-General and Mr. Superintendent Hunt—the latter functionary especially, for his business-like despatch of these arrangements for daily delivery.

The experience and discernment of this gentleman have, no doubt, led him to report, ere this, the necessity of a pillar for letters midway between Bourke-street and Paddington, and of an improved mail communication with Sydney and the suburbs. At present, the quickest interchange of letters possible, under existing arrangements, is, with Sydney, two days; with the suburbs, three and oftener four days. Judging as I do from two years' recent experience of postal arrangements in the Home countries, I must pronounce this very slow work indeed for a General Post Office. At the same time, it is but justice to admit that the despatch of the mail on arrival, and of Sydney letters per se, deserves all the credit given from time to time in your journal.

Yours, &c.,
W. T. C.

Glenmore Road, November 13th.

P.S.—Pray remember "the Pillar."

TO THE CITY CORONER.

(Per favour of the Sydney Morning Herald.)

SIR,—I have to complain of the unwarrantable interference of your constable, on the 10th instant, at an inquest held on the body of a child found drowned at Balmain. I have heard a good deal of talk about similar occurrences lately, and think it time it should be stopped.

On the 9th instant, hearing that a child was found in the water, as I knew the parents, I went down and enquired about it, and viewed the body, and decided to attend the inquest.

I was waiting in court, and to the knowledge of your constable. He seemed uneasy, running in and out of court on divers pretences, delaying the proceedings, as if expecting somebody; in fact, waiting until Dr. Woodcock should arrive.

When Dr. W. at length appeared, he officiously asked him to see the body.

I said I was there to give the necessary evidence. The constable then suggested that, as Dr. Woodcock had come from Cook's River on purpose, he should go and see the body also. I then stated that I thought one medical opinion quite enough; and, being disgusted with the shuffling and by-play, said I would have no arrangement, and demanded either to be dismissed, or to have my evidence taken at once.

The jury here demanded that I should be sworn, and intimated to Dr. Woodcock that he was not wanted.

This is not the first case by many where similar tricks have been tried by the same party. Such conduct can only lead to unseemly discussions, and raise suspicion of collusion where none should exist.

Mr. F. Harpur was shuffled out of a case in a manner similar to that tried on me unsuccessfully; others have also had grounds for dissatisfaction.

With the idea firmly implanted in my mind, that publicity through the Press is a most wholesome application to an abuse,

I remain, Sir, your most obedient servant,
OWEN SPENCER EVANS.

Darling-street, Balmain, November 11.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—In your Wednesday's issue I observed a letter from "Veritas," of Queanbeyan, whose sentiments are just, and, in order to bear him out in his observations, allow me to instance a case among many others in the district. About ten months ago, three respectable, industrious, and hard-working individuals applied to Mr. Weaver to measure a farm for each of them, not knowing that he was suspended. Mr. Weaver came and measured the three different farms, and, naturally enough for him, he demanded payment for his work. One of them paid him £8, the other paid him £9, and the third paid him nothing. Whether it was legal I leave it to the enlightened authorities to say; but the three industrious men have been waiting anxiously for the farms to be put up for sale, and are now despairing of ever getting them.

Shortly after Mr. Weaver was suspended, a respectable surveyor, residing in the district, applied for the situation. After waiting for an answer some six or seven months, he was ordered to proceed to Sydney, from which place, after waiting some six or seven weeks, he had to return to his family, only with a faint hope that he might obtain the appointment. It is now four weeks since he left again for Sydney for the purpose, as I suppose, of being examined as to his qualifications.

Query. Could a school-boy not have examined him in as many hours as he waited weeks the first time he appeared, and given him his answer, yea or nay, and saved his family from a very great expense, and done justice to the inhabitants of the county of Murray, by at once appointing a surveyor for the district?

Gundaroo, 8th November.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—As my friend Mr. Sadleir, in his letter dated November 4th, admits the injustice of appropriating passages, even from anonymous publications, without "a general acknowledgment," I do not think it necessary to follow him through the personal allusions of his rambling communication. All that I complained of in reference to "The Life of the Rev. S. Marsden," which has recently arrived in the colony, was the injustice of copying sentences, and, in some instances, pages, from my little book without acknowledgment. Whether the fault rests with the reverend editor in England, or with some of his correspondents in the colony, I am not in a position to state; but the charge of plagiarism against some one is too evident to be denied or evaded.

Mr. Sadleir states that it was in the year 1844 he conceived the idea of writing the life of the Rev. S. Marsden, and that he began from that period collecting documents, &c., &c., to furnish materials for the publication. Perhaps Mr. Sadleir may have forgotten the circumstance, but I trust he will excuse me for reminding him, that he was indebted to W. W. for several of the Church Missionary reports and pamphlets, which, on his own confession, have contributed so materially to the manuscript life These books were originally given to me by the late Mr. Hall, of Blacktown, and after having extracted such passages as I required, I lent them to Mr. Sadleir. Although I have never seen the works in question since 1845, I still regard them as my property.

There is a remark in the conclusion of Mr. Sadleir's letter, in which he insinuates that I published my little book from motives of "pecuniary benefit," or "personal fame." The first charge certainly comes with a bad grace from my gallant friend, after his previous acknowledgment that the main obstacle to the publication of his book in England has been the illiberality of the London booksellers, who, it appears, offered only £25 for the manuscript. The charge, however, is altogether unfounded, for in consequence of my connexion with All Saints' Church at that period, I handed over, towards the debt on that building, the trifle which I received from the sale of the little book. With respect to "personal fame," I think my friend himself has afforded a sufficient refutation, by informing the public that my book was published "anonymously." What "personal fame" could be acquired by an anonymous publication?

Mr. Sadleir of course had no "personal fame" in view when he sent his manuscript to England. His only object, he states, was "to advance the missionary enterprise." Why then did he mix up so "much political matter" with his book as to render it offensive even to our late "celebrated visitor, the Rev. Thomas Binney?" As a true friend of the late Mr. Marsden, and as a promoter of missionary enterprise, why did he not dwell principally upon that gentleman's connexion with the great missionary societies? How "political mixtures" could elevate the character of a clergyman, or advance missionary enterprise, I am at a loss to conceive.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
W. W.

George-street, Parramatta, November 11th.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—Will you have the kindness, through the medium of your widely circulated journal, to inform me of the origin of the expression "wool-gathering?"

A friend, lately arrived in the colony, has been struck with the expression, having never before seen it used in the sense of absence of mind, and being anxious to know the "why and the wherefore" of most things, has applied to me for information on the subject; and not being able myself to satisfy the enquiry, I appeal to you, and subscribe myself

Your humble servant,
ENQUIRER.

[We gather from the tenor of our correspondent's question that the expression of "wool-gathering," having reference to an unprofitable absence of mind, is a colonial provincialism. Such, however, is not the case. The term will be found in Todd's edition of Johnson, published at London, by Longman and Company, in 1827. That authority describes it as "an old expression coupled with wits, applied to an inattentive or careless person; and still retained in Suffolk,"—according to a glossary of the provincialisms of that county compiled by a Mr. More. The word appears in an old work (The World of Wonders (1608) page 349) in the sense described. It is also to be found in Burton's Anatomy of Melancholy, (page 1, section 2) in the following passage:—"His wits were a wool-gathering, as they say, and his head busied about other matters." Although the term is rejected by Webster (Barker's English Edition, 1832), it is preserved in a late and excellent authority, Ogilvie's Imperial Dictionary, 1851—and appears to be a sufficiently legitimate phrase. It is probably derived from the custom of the children of the poor in some parts of England to collect and glean, as it were, those small tufts of wool which are occasionally to be found left adhering to brambles and bushes where sheep ordinarily resort. Hence, doubtless, the term has come, metaphorically, to be applied to any trifling and unprofitable preoccupation of thought which can be but little more than waste of time—a mere vagrant, idle exercise of the imagination, often leading to the neglect of the present and more important objects.—ED.]

VENTILATION OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—All your educated and intelligent readers must have observed with sincere satisfaction the announcement, in the Parliamentary proceedings of last week, that the important subject of the ventilation of public buildings had at length attracted the attention of the Legislature. If the first step, so judiciously taken, be fairly and zealously followed up, the results cannot be otherwise than highly conducive to the general welfare. It may, however, be as well to remark that in this colony there is nothing novel in the principle on which the proposed enquiry is based, namely, that it is the unquestionable duty of the Government to keep watch and ward over the health of the community at large. This is proved by the appointment of two health-officers here,—one for the port and colony, and the other for the city of Sydney; and, moreover, it may be considered as merely a corollary of that noble and well-known axiom of Roman policy, the fundamental principle of all responsible Government, viz., Salus populi, suprema lex esto.

But some strong-minded and sceptical persons may ask, what good do you expect to derive from the enquiries specified in Dr. Bland's motion? What are the grievances or the mischiefs which it is to remedy? In reply, I would beg the querist to step into the Supreme Court about three o'clock in the afternoon, on almost any day throughout the year, while judicial business is going on there. He will then perceive an odour "most tolerable, and not to be endured," which it would be difficult to describe, because it can be appreciated only by those who have experienced it. The scent, perhaps, resembles, to a certain degree, that of a boiling-down establishment, and, probably, for a similar reason, namely, that the persons and pockets of the suitors are under the skilful management of the lawyers, undergoing, at one and the same time, an analogous process. (The sudorific.) It is hardly necessary to observe that a large and most imperfectly ventilated public room, filled with an atmosphere through which is diffused a continually increasing amount of animal exhalations, must be not only dangerous, but positively injurious to the health of all remaining for any length of time in it. Indeed, we may ask with a distinguished hygeinic writer (the late Dr. Andrew Combe), "Is it not surprising that we frequently see the most fastidious individuals, who would scruple to eat what had been touched by their neighbour's hand, inhale, without objection, the breath which has just issued from their neighbour's nostrils?"

I shall not occupy your space by adverting more particularly to other public buildings, except to observe that, bad as may be the condition of our law courts as regards adequate ventilation, our Houses of Parliament are little, if at all, better. In corroboration of this assertion, I would recall the attention of your readers to the strong current of foul air which, on last Friday night, set in from one of the above-mentioned edifices, directly against the office of the Sydney Morning Herald. It possibly attracted but little notice from the inmates of your establishment, but its virulence rendered it but too obvious to all outsiders. Now, Sir, give me leave to ask, had the Houses of Parliament enjoyed a system of thorough ventilation, would this untoward event have taken place?

I ought not, I conceive, to bring these remarks to a conclusion without offering a tribute of approbation and respect to Dr. Bland, for the moral courage which he has displayed in being the first member of the Legislature to grapple with this important subject, and for the sagacious and effectual manner in which he has shaped his motion, fully realizing as it does Lord Bacon's axiom—"Prudens interrogatio, dimidium scientiæ."

CIVIS.

THE NEWLY APPOINTED INSPECTOR OF THE CHARITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—I note in this morning's paper that Mr. Deniehy has stated that, when he assented to the appointment, he was under the belief the party that was to be appointed would be a medical man.

No doubt, under such circumstances, the appointment would be very judicious. At all events, I am of that opinion, more especially when the very expensive working of the Government charities is enquired into, say, to wit, the working of the two Orphan Schools at Parramatta, compared to that excellent establishment partly built by the bequest of the late Dr. Cuthill—I mean the new building known as the Destitute Children's Asylum, at Randwick—although labouring under many serious disadvantages, as compared with the beforementioned institutions, the cost of its efficiency and maintenance is fully one-third less than is paid by the Government for the support of those establishments entirely under their own control.

I maintain that a proper inspector should be appointed, and should be empowered from time to time to suggest such improvements and modifications as he might deem most advisable, to the various boards of management, for their adoption for the general good government of such institutions.

I hope some honorable member of the House will move for the returns of cost of the two orphan establishments at Parramatta, and compare them in fair ratio with the Randwick institution (although labouring under disadvantages). The public will then be enabled to better judge if such an appointment is not urgently necessary; and further, how much more beneficial that such an officer should be a medical man, who would the better understand if the establishment conduced to the enjoyment of health by the various inmates.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.,
J. G. RAPHAEL,
ONE OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE OF THE DESTITUTE CHILDREN'S ASYLUM.

THE WANT OF CONFIDENCE MOTION.

(From the Argus of Thursday.)

AT two o'clock this morning the House delivered its verdict in the great case of M'Mahon and O'Shanassy. At twenty-five minutes to two Captain Perry began to address himself to "the main facts of the case"—as if the case had not been, hours before, exhausted!—as if the facts had not already been sifted, and twisted, and subjected to all sorts of dexterous manipulations,—as if the House had not made up its mind hours before!—as if all the facts had not been tacitly settled, and the reporters made out their division lists, and the hopes of the gentlemen who had expected to be "sent for," been quietly laid, and the Ministerial voices attuned for the triumphal cheer, hours before! The whole question was completely disposed of, and the House might have recorded its opinion, and composedly have gone to rest, at a period which would have left us the opportunity of leisurely reviewing the arguments adduced in the course of a discussion which undoubtedly involved some of the most important questions of administrative government under a system of Parliamentary responsibility. But that one or two gentlemen obtruded themselves unnecessarily into the debate, where much greater men than themselves were content to be silent, there would be little cause to complain of the general tenor of the night's proceedings. Towards the close the temper of the House waxed warm. Mr. Michie introduced the element of sarcasm and invective, which, until that honorable and learned gentleman rose, had been carefully eschewed, and the general question very fairly discussed on its merits. Captain Anderson did himself infinite credit by stating the case of his friend with temper, dignity, and a remarkable absence of exaggeration. Mr. O'Shanassy, who replied to him, betrayed less than usual of the spirit of domination and impatience of control that occasionally render his attitude in the House offensive to men of refined taste. Of Mr. Sitwell's reply to the Chief Secretary, we can only say that it was not remarkable for its felicitousness, developing to an equal extent the animus of a partisan and the art of a pleader. Mr. Duffy did much to secure the Government its ultimate triumph. The Commissioner of Public Works has seldom spoken with so much effectiveness. Mr. Chapman and Mr. Ireland scarcely improved the position which Mr. Duffy had established. They had not much, however, in the shape of argument adduced on the other side to reply to. Mr. Haines' statement threw but little new light even on the details of the case under discussion, and scarcely touched the great principle of administration it involved. Of Mr. Ebden's speech we may say the same. Mr. Michie was, as is often his wont, ineffectively brilliant. He indulged in jokes that provoked infinite laughter, leaving his audience wondering, a moment after, what they had laughed at. The late Attorney-General spoke at an hour when anything which imparted liveliness into the debate was welcome; but he said nothing to assist the House to arrive at a truthful judgment. The only circumstance for which his speech was remarkable was its impeachment of Mr. Aspinall for the charges which that gentleman had preferred against Captain M'Mahon's administration of the police. This called up Mr. Aspinall, who alluded to the esprit de corps which brought Captain Henderson forward on behalf of a brother officer, as contrasted with the gusto with which Mr. Michie took the opportunity of attacking a brother barrister, and taunted Mr. Michie with his apology in Mr. Milner Stephen's case. Whether Mr. Michie blamed him for ever making the charges against Captain M'Mahon or for not withdrawing them, he did not see, nor was he aware, in Mr. Milner Stephen's case, which of these errors Mr. Michie confessed himself so tardily to have committed. Mr. Aspinall, however, had, he said, conscientiously brought this matter forward, and had conscientiously felt that he could not make a sincere apology, and would not make an insincere one. Acquiescing, as a member of the House, in the decision of the committee, which he thought amounted only to "not proven," he rather than reiterate the charges, had not alluded to the subject, even in his own defence. Mr. Michie, however, had forced him to his own vindication. The whole of this matter was very unnecessarily and injudiciously imported into the debate. The hon. member for Talbot was evidently put unexpectedly on his defence, and felt the embarrassment of a self-vindication, that almost necessitated the raising of an issue, which it seemed ungenerous, under the circumstances to suggest—an embarrassment from which Mr. Aspinall's silence on the subject up to that point should, we consider, have saved him. The questions of general political administration involved in the discussion, and embodied in the amendments which the Assembly have assented to, are of a very important character, and will receive outside of the House a scrutiny without which no affirmations of this kind by the Legislature can be considered finally binding on the country.

The result of the debate was one that could scarcely have been anticipated by the Ministry itself. Mr. O'Shanassy intimated that the adoption of the vote of censure would be followed by a resignation and a crisis. Whatever judgment may be formed of the wisdom of the course thus determined on, or of its patriotism—or whatever views may be entertained of this case as it is now presented—it is at all events satisfactory that we are not to be submitted to the inconvenience of new Ministerial changes.

DUELLING IN CALIFORNIA.

(From the Daily Alta California, September 15.)

DEATH OF SENATOR WILLIAM I. FERGUSON. — At precisely five o'clock yesterday afternoon, Senator William I. Ferguson, of Sacramento, died at the Union Hotel, in this city, of a pistol wound, given by George Pen Johnston, in a duel fought on Angel Island, 21st August. During the last week, Mr. Ferguson has been gradually growing weaker, although his spirits remained as cheerful as at first, and even until yesterday noon his nearest friends and most constant attendants entertained sanguine hopes of his ultimate recovery. Shortly after that hour, however, his physicians, Drs. Sawyer and Angle, decided, from the appearance of the wound that it was indispensably necessary to make an incision into the thigh, which operation was most skilfully and successfully performed by Dr. Sawyer, the patient meanwhile being under the influence of chloroform. The object of this incision was to develop the extent of the wound, and to determine whether or not amputation was necessary. The hour of two was fixed upon as the time for the operation, previous to which, however, he sent for his friend and constant attendant, General Estill, with whom he had a long and confidential conversation, which resulted in placing the whole matter at the discretion of a board of physicians, who met at the time appointed. This board, consisted of the attending physicians above named, together with Drs. Gray, Rowell, and Coit. The incision having been effected, it was apparent that amputation was the only hope left of saving the patient's life, for it was found that the bones were completely shattered for a length of six inches. The interstices were filled with a puddle of pus, and, as Dr. Gray informs us, these was at this moment no doubt in his mind that amputation, although the dernier ressort, could not save the patient's life. Everything having been duly and carefully prepared, at forty-five minutes past three o'clock Dr. Sawyer, assisted by Dr. Gray, and the other attending surgeons, amputated the limb, the patient again being under the influence of chloroform. The various arteries and veins being quickly and skilfully bandaged, very little blood escaped, but the patient was too far gone to rally, and before the operation was wholly over, the vital spark had fled. Before the commencement of the final operation, Mr. Ferguson prepared himself for death. He then, for the first time, stated that he believed the wound had extended to his hip-joint, as that had of late been the source of great pain. He had little or no doubt amputation would be necessary, and did not expect to survive it. Indeed, he went so far as to say that life was not desirable under such circumstances. His language was sensible and cheerful, yet his tone was feeble and melancholy. He conversed freely of the difficulty that brought about the meeting between him and his antagonist, which, he insisted, was misunderstood. He did not doubt that Mr. Johnston was honest in that misunderstanding, and believed that he, Mr. Ferguson, had really made the remark attributable to him. Yet Mr. F. contended that he was the proper judge, and that his adversary was mistaken. In this assertion he exhibited much earnestness, and repeated the remark again and again. He spoke of the meeting between them on the ground, after he had been wounded, and regretted that an improper interpretation had been given to Mr. Johnston's remarks. He contended they were spoken kindly and feelingly, and were well intended, and hoped no friend of his would say to the contrary. He also stated that the whole affair was conducted honorably and fairly, and above all he desired that no prosecution of Mr. Johnston should be tolerated by his friends. He said in this connection, "I freely forgive him, and hope he may continue to be a useful and honorable member of society, then why should others whom he never injured refuse to do so?" He spoke of his mother, but no language can convey the eloquence of his trembling lips, and silvery accents, as he called the name of her who gave the life that was just entering eternity. Mr. Ferguson expressed the wish to be buried in Sacramento, as he felt that place to be his home, yet he would leave the matter to his friends. At this period he desired to be alone. In a few moments thereafter his faithful servant came from his room bathed in tears. "He had said his last prayer on earth." When his friends again entered, he said "I am now ready." The chloroform was applied, and he never spoke more. The melancholy news of his demise was immediately despatched to all points on the telegraph line, and not an hour elapsed before we received intelligence that his death had created sorrowful sensation throughout the State.

Both before and since this sad event, we have expressed ourselves freely upon the practice of duelling, and upon this case in particular. We cannot, therefore, be justly accused of crying out at the eleventh hour, now that the mischief is done, in sa

The Witchcraft, which arrived yesterday from San Francisco, is a perfect specimen of the American clipper, having been built expressly for speed. Although a vessel of 1300 tons, her carrying capacity does not afford stowage for more than 900 tons—a proof how very sharp she must be. She has made the passage from San Francisco in forty-nine days, with only very indifferent winds. She touched at Pyistart, one of the Tonga Islands, and brought on two men who had been residing on the island for some time, having formerly belonged to a whaler. The Alabama, American whaler, was lying there.

There is no report of interest by the J. G. Glover, from the United States, nor have any vessels been spoken during the passage.

The Azzan, from Manila the 12th August, reports the John Bunyan as loading for Sydney.

THE GRAND TRIANON.—This fine ship has been chartered by the H. E. I. Co. to convey stock to Madras. She will take 110 horses, accompanied by 11 grooms. She is well ventilated with 14 lights, 7 at each side, together with 4 patent ventilators from the upper deck to where the horses are stalled. There will be no stalls on the upper deck, so that in case of necessity in bad weather the horses will be perfectly out of the way—all that will require to be done will be to close the hatches. She has on board over 200 tons of water and full complement of forage for 70 days, the average passages being from 60 to 65 days. Each horse will be allowed six gallons of water per day. The Pam Plush is also taken up by the E. I. Government to proceed to that port with stock, and is the next ship to sail. The present horses shipped on board the Grand Trianon are said to be the finest yet despatched from this colony.

THE CHEROKEE, for Sydney, left Manila on the 7th August.

The Austrian frigate Novarra, 44 guns, Commodore Bernard von Wullerstorff, was placed in the Government Dry Dock, by Captain Mann, on Saturday forenoon. She entered with perfect ease, having all her main deck guns on board, although, it being the season of neap tides, there was fully one foot less water at the entrance than usual. The Novarra is a very fine vessel, and evidently large of her class. It is satisfactory thus to have proved the capabilities of the Fitzroy Dry Dock, this being the first instance in which so large a man-of-war has been docked in Sydney Harbour.

To C. P. O. Rafferty, Esq., C.E., Thomas Willis, M.D., and the other passengers per Gazelle, sailing the address.

Ladies and Gentlemen,—Allow me to return you my sincere thanks for your kind appreciation of my humble endeavours to make the passage from Auckland to Sydney agreeable to you, and I assure you it will ever be my earnest desire to make those sailing with me as comfortable as I possibly can, a duty which, permit me to say, you have on this occasion made most agreeable, by the good feeling shewn towards myself, and your entire satisfaction with the accommodations provided on board the favourite vessel I have the honour to command. With my best wishes for your future welfare.

I have the honour to remain, your obedient servant,
A. CUNNINGHAM.

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS.—In our leader yesterday it was stated that many births were not registered till the lapse of six months. This is an error: it should have been sixty days. If six months are allowed to elapse, no registration at all can be effected, and the advantage is irrecoverably lost.

COURT OF REQUESTS.—£30 Jurisdiction.—The Court will resume its sittings at ten o'clock, this morning, with the hearing of the case O'Halloran v. Buchanan, No. 87, continued from last month. The assessors summoned for this day are Messrs. G. R. Hirst, A. Hordern, and H. R. Hurford.

The Band of the 12th Regiment will perform a selection of music this day, at half-past 3 o'clock, in the Botanic Gardens. Programme: Overture—"Les Chaperons Blancs," Auber; Selection—"Norma," Bellini; Waltz—"Adelaide," Lamotte; Selection—"Il Trovatore," Verdi; Quadrille—"La Tyrollienne," Musard; Galop—"Le Postillon," Zabel; God save the Queen. Director, Mr. Callen.

PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE.—A meeting was held in the Scots Church, Jamison-street, last evening, to hear an address by the Rev. Dr. Lang on the present position and prospects of the Presbyterian College question. Mr. Black occupied the chair. In the address there was a general review of the points of dissension upon the College question, of the action taken with a view to the establishment of this institution, and an explanation of the fresh position in which the subject was placed by the report of the select committee of the Legislative Assembly.

MAP OF GOULBURN.—Mr. J. R. Ardill, surveyor, brought to our office yesterday a large and handsome map of Goulburn. It is nine feet by six, and is on the scale of four chains to an inch. It shows all the streets laid out both by Government and private parties, and all the houses at present erected. The materials of the houses are also indicated, stone being coloured umber, brick red, and timber yellow. Round the margin are about thirty drawings of the principal edifices in the town. The map is dedicated to Colonel Barney, and is to be engraved forthwith on the same scale, when copies will doubtless be eagerly secured by those who are interested in the possession of property in the southern capital.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1858.

WE should scarcely express the feelings of our fellow citizens did we permit the departure of Archdeacon M'ENCROE to pass without special observation. We are, no doubt, approaching an epoch when our neighbours will often quit these shores for England for so brief a time as to make the formality of parting scarcely an obligation of friendship. What was at one time an undertaking to be once compassed during life has, by the triumphs of this mechanical and scientific age, been changed into a trip of pleasure.

The very long residence of Archdeacon M'ENCROE, and his estimable public and private character, have given him a conspicuous place among the colonists of New South Wales, and conciliated towards him not only the warm affection of those who are ecclesiastically connected with him, but the admiration of many, and, we believe we may add, the respect of all, who are familiar with his career. Dr. M'ENCROE, more than almost any clergyman of his Church, has cultivated friendly intercourse with his fellow-citizens of other denominations. His hale and honest countenance—his peculiar, rapid, and often eloquent utterance—the humour that sparkled in his eye and often tripped over his tongue—his evident sympathy with all that was tender, gentle, and humanizing—and his conspicuous advocacy of many of those popular reforms which have from time to time struggled and triumphed—have brought him into prominence on many occasions, and made him always welcome at public gatherings as well as in more private associations.

Dr. M'ENCROE espoused with characteristic ardour the cause of temperance through all its phases. No man spoke more boldly in denunciation of the vice, the mischief of which no man had seen more extensively exemplified. Were the facts which passed before him during his clerical career to be grouped and placed before the public, they would probably produce a stronger impression than any argument, however elaborate or eloquent. While he stood up in these assemblies and in his own peculiar manner threw out in parcels, distinct and nicely packed, his pungent facts and illustrations, his features themselves were bright allies of his temperance doctrines, and showed how it is possible for the most rigorous self-control to consist with ruddy health.

Archdeacon M'ENCROE has exercised in a certain sphere a very extensive political influence. Were we to scrutinize rigorously every sentiment he uttered, and every theory he advanced, we should probably find something to condemn; but our impression of the whole tendency of his authority, acting upon large masses of colonists, is in the highest degree favourable. No man in his position could have had the slightest chance of influence had not his opinions been somewhat extreme; had he not heartily and cordially embraced what seemed the popular cause; had he not stood out prominently as the embodiment of the main ideas and sympathies of his countrymen. Dr. M'ENCROE was in every respect an Irishman, ready to fire up with patriotic ardour whenever the name of his country was in question, and to assert with uncompromising vigour those traditional opinions which belong to his race and to his religion. But underlying and governing all these views and sympathies in his mind, there reigned sound common sense—a just view of the means by which reforms are to be accomplished—a detestation of every kind of disorder—a generosity towards those who differed from him in opinion. In this respect, so far as we can call to mind, his political career has been remarkable, and worthy of imitation. While he adopted the strongest views of his nation and of his Church, and held them forth with uncompromising candour, he, nevertheless, avoided those mischievous and bitter insinuations and reflections which kindle the flames of resentment, and cause society to be divided into hostile sects, ever at war. For many years, at least, there has been no indication of any such division of our citizens as would disturb the peace of society. No doubt, in their separate spheres, intense antipathies exist, and often burst forth; but as nothing could be more injurious than a busy, meddling priest, soured by malignant traditions, and burning with envy and ambition—delighting to lash into madness an unreflecting and ardent people; so no person is in a condition to exercise more benignant influence upon society than the man who, while retaining the confidence and admiration of his own countrymen, can calm the effervescence of ancient feuds, and level the various prejudices of our social state into one harmonious citizenship.

The experience of Archdeacon M'ENCROE, from his peculiar cast, has happily tended to enlarge his charities. There are some minds in which the recollection of early wrongs rankles with intense animosity—there are men who through life wreak upon everything which reminds them of their early mortifications the unslumbering vengeance of a wounded spirit. We remember to have been told by the Archdeacon that his sympathies in favour of civil and religious liberty were intensified and fixed by the contrast he felt in passing from Ireland to America. No one needs to be informed that in the early days of Archdeacon M'ENCROE—when rebellion was quenched in blood, and when political enmity and religious hate embittered as well as cemented each other—that a young priest would be conscious in a British Government of little that could conciliate his regard. On his arrival in America, however, one of his earliest experiences was being called by the Governor of the State to advise upon matters of importance. The contrast of liberal institutions—whose proper sequence is the fullest religious liberty—would have made him a convert to that side of politics, had he required any such impetus. The influence of this experience has in his public life only prompted him to seek the extension of civil and religious liberty. And, whatever may have been the opinion or ultimate aim of many who have been the advocates of this cause, no one can doubt of Archdeacon M'ENCROE that the extension of social and political freedom was an object dear to his heart. This venerable man was to the anti-transportation cause a tower of strength, and he was found a warm supporter of all our benevolent institutions. Generally present as the representative of his own denomination, and sometimes obliged to hear what must have been grating to his feelings, he nevertheless showed none of that marked sensitiveness which renders the contact of various parties of religionists a source of so much difficulty and dissatisfaction. No one was afraid that Archdeacon M'ENCROE would misunderstand or inflame a prejudice, hastily catch up a slip of the tongue, or construe into offence what had become to the speaker a stereotyped mode of expression. In this respect his conduct was always admirable, and could not fail to be noticed by any enlightened and generous antagonist.

Of Dr. M'ENCROE's connection with the Press we can scarcely speak with any degree of certainty. What the connection was is not very clear. He sometimes incurred, and sometimes repudiated, the blame of indiscretion in the conduct of that journal in which he appears to have been pecuniarily interested. No one, however, need be told that he was not himself the author of articles offensive to good taste or inconsistent with Christian charity—not the lollypop sort of charity—but that which consists with manliness and truth. It is the misfortune of men who are associated with the Press that they must suffer in silence censures which they have not deserved, and bear the reproach of sentiments which they would be the first to disavow. Considering the complicated machinery of the Press, where many minds and many hands are necessarily employed—where much must be confided to individual judgment—and where hurry and inadvertence will often be productive of serious mistakes—it is impossible for any man to pass through a long career in prominent connection with the Press without suffering the loss of friendships, and in some degree compromising his reputation.

The whole world is a fight. Every man must do battle in one form or another, and sometimes suffer that which he has not provoked, and perhaps cannot—perhaps disdains to return. In the midst of its contentions, it is refreshing to turn to a mind and character like that of Archdeacon M'ENCROE.

THE City Engineer's manifesto against the tramway down Pitt-street was, doubtless, intended as a settler, yet it is hardly so formidable in fact as it is in intention. The tone of the document indicates an unmistakeable determination to find fault with the scheme; but some more solid objections must be brought forward before the public generally will be induced to condemn it and forego its many admitted advantages. The level of the streets is not to be interfered with in any way that could give rise to objection. From Bathurst-street to the Cove the descent is gentle, and no better gradient need be desired. From Bathurst-street to the station-yard, there is, it must be admitted, an ascent and descent rather steeper than could be wished for, but the Commissioner of Railways promises to make no alteration that shall be injurious or disagreeable. Objections, therefore, being foreclosed on this score, Mr. BELL falls back upon the kind of tram that is proposed, and pronounces it dangerous. The first design was to have grooved iron bars resting in chairs. He was perfectly ready to have found fault with this, but BARLOW's rails having been substituted, he is equally ready to condemn them. We do not profess to settle engineering questions, and it may be that neither of the plans designed at present may be the best. But this much we may safely say, that it is quite possible to combine an iron tram for flanged wheels with an ordinary macadamised road, and that too with perfect safety to both descriptions of vehicles in use. Mr. BELL admits that he has seen this in operation in one instance in America, but there, he says, the road was very wide. But the width of the road has nothing to do with the dangerousness of mixing iron with a metalled track. If it is dangerous to cross or run along the rails when laid on a broad road, it would be equally so on a narrow one; and if it is safe in one case, why should not it be equally safe in the other? The one instance which Mr. BELL saw with his own eyes has been repeated elsewhere scores of times, and not only is it used for railway terminal purposes, but regular suburban lines have been laid out round some of the American cities for omnibus traffic, and we never remember to have heard them condemned as dangerous. All round Paris, too, a line of similar character is laid, and has been found not only unobjectionable, but extremely convenient. Ordinary vehicles pass along and across the lines of rails without the slightest danger. What particular form of rail it may be best to use, and what particular method of imbedding them in the road may be the most secure, are questions of detail for engineers to settle. But the difficulties having been successfully got over in other parts of the world, we cannot consider them insuperable in Sydney. We may add that a bill is now before the Legislature of Victoria, one object of which is to construct a tramway along the public streets to connect the terminus of the Hobson's Bay railway with the grand terminus of the Government railways.

No doubt Pitt-street is very narrow, and it is a pity that those who laid out the city had not a prophetic foresight of its future greatness, so as to have given us at least one main street of adequate breadth. But that is an evil that is past remedy now, and regrets are vain. The practical question is, whether Pitt-street being as narrow as it is, can be safely traversed by an omnibus with flanged wheels running on rails laid down on the crown of the road? It must be remembered that this vehicle will be drawn by horses, will proceed at a moderate pace, will stop at all the cross streets to take up and set down passengers, and can be stopped by means of the breaks much more readily than a common omnibus can.

Mr. BELL's suggestion that the locomotive line should be continued to the Cove, via the Woolloomooloo valley, has been frequently mooted, and no doubt would be the completest plan; but it would cost as many thousands as the tramway would cost hundreds, and there is no money at present to spare. Indeed the cheapness of the tramway is one of its strongest recommendations. Three or four thousand pounds would complete it, and Mr. BELL admits that it would be of incalculable benefit to the Great Southern Railway—which is public property. It would also raise the annual value of the Circular Quay—another piece of public property; and it would enhance the value of some Government land round the quay that still remains unsold. All these "potentialities" of public revenue only await the outlay of about four thousand pounds! We think it would be almost worth while to go to the outlay, if it were only for the sake of experiment, though sure we are that if it were once introduced, it would be retained by general acclamation.

A large number of Pitt-street householders have petitioned in favour of it. Mr. BELL, indeed, tries to make it appear that they petitioned for the abandoned "grooved bar" rail, and would not have favoured the Barlow rail. We will undertake to say that nine-tenths of the petitioners do not care what sort of rail is used, and probably do not know the difference between the two sorts. What they are willing to see is a tramway on which the railway carriages can pass, and it is indifferent to them what sort of rail is used, so long as it lies flush with the road, and does not impede the ordinary traffic.

The strongest objection Mr. BELL urges, and indeed we may say the only one of any weight, is that the water main and the sewer lies close under the surface of Pitt-street, and to get at them for the purpose of repair, it would be necessary to disturb the tram. But, at the most, such disturbance would only be casual, and it would be better to have the line obstructed now and then than never to have the use of it at all. Moreover, we should not be at all surprised if when the Pitt-street line were in full operation, the advantage to the shopkeepers would be found so great that the George-street residents would petition for a similar line, and if there were two such parallel lines, both would never be obstructed at once.

So long as cities are built without "subways" for the gas pipes, water pipes, and sewers, it is of course necessary to disturb the surface whenever these conduits need repair. But we do not on that account abandon the formation of good streets in despair. Under Mr. BELL's supervision, New Pitt-street has been very solidly made, and it would sadly interfere with the strength and symmetry of the subjacent paving if the crown of the road had to be disturbed to get at the pipes below. Yet Mr. BELL was not deterred by such considerations from making the roadway. The possible disturbance of the crown of the road is an unavoidable evil, but it is better to run the risk of it than to do without water or sewers, or submit to bad streets. Moreover, new water pipes and new gas pipes are being, or have been, laid down, which it is to be supposed will not be unusually liable to injury for some time to come, and the sewer also is not more than two years old, so that very frequent disturbance is hardly to be calculated upon. We cannot, therefore, consider this objection as at all fatal to the scheme. We hope the Municipal Council will reconsider its determination, and not stand in the way of a scheme which will not injure the city, while it will add to the value of public property, and be an immense convenience to all who make use of the railway.

LAW.

SUPREME COURT.—MONDAY.

SITTINGS FOR THE TRIAL OF CAUSES.

JURY COURT.

BEFORE Mr. Justice Dickinson and a special jury of twelve.

CAMPBELL v. NICHOLSON.

This was an action by Mr. Alexander Campbell, of Sydney, against Mr. W. Nicholson, of Maitland, for non-delivery of flour acording to contract.

Mr. Broadhurst, Q.C., and Mr. Isaacs appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Martin, Q.C., Mr. Wise, and Mr. Fancett for the defendant.

The trial of this case did not terminate.

BANCO COURT.

Before Mr. Justice Therry and a jury of four.

BYRNE v. CHIPPENDALL.

This was an action for trespass upon certain land and premises at Campbelltown.

Mr. Blake appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Isaacs for the defendant.

The object of this suit had been to determine a question of title as to several houses and some land at Campbelltown. A good deal of evidence was gone into, but it turned out that the main object of the suit could not be answered—i.e., that as to the houses the real dispute could only be decided by a proceeding in ejectment. The trespass proved, therefore, was only a slight one, as to a particular field or paddock. The only important question raised in this case was, whether the fact of a cestinque trust holding through a servant was such a possession for the trustee as would enable the latter to bring trespass. His Honor decided this question in the affirmative, but with a reservation of the point for the opinion of the full Court. The litigant parties here were the trustees and a person who claimed through the purchase, at a Sheriff's sale, of the right, title, and interest of a former occupier. No actual questions of title were, however, gone into. The trespass proved in the paddock consisted in the occupation of it for some months, and in cutting down some fencing.

Verdict for the plaintiff; damages £12 10s.

BUSINESS FOR THIS DAY.

JURY COURT.—Special juries of twelve. Campbell v. Nicholson (part heard); Wright v. Hirst.

BANCO COURT.—Juries of four. Buckland and another v. Randall; Carney v. Amner; Wilson, official assignee, v. Beattie; Bradford v. Williams; Nichols v. The Liverpool and London Fire and Life Assurance Company; Curtis v. The Commissioners for Railways.

IN EQUITY.—Before his Honor the Primary Judge in Equity. Motions and petitions. Underwood and others v. Underwood and others, minutes of decree to be spoken to; Grovenor v. Williams and others, exceptions, (part heard); Ryley v. Fullerton (part heard); Rattray v. White, hearing; Jenkins and others v. Jenkins and others, hearing; Watkins v. L'Estrange, hearing.

BUSINESS IN MASTER'S OFFICE.—Terry and others v. Hosking and others, to tax costs; same v same, ditto; White v. Rattray, to settle minutes; Newton v. Hammond, to settle minutes; Campbell v. Arkins, to settle order.

INSOLVENCY COURT.

MONDAY.

BEFORE the Chief Commissioner of Insolvent Estates.

In the estate of Charles Gray, an adjourned single meeting. One debt was proved, and insolvent was examined touching an amount of money received by him shortly before his sequestration, and its disposal. Insolvent was allowed his household furniture and wearing apparel, subject to the payment of fees and expenses.

In the estate of John Crowley, a second meeting. No debts were proved. Insolvent was examined by the official assignee as to the purchase of certain land at Longbottom, on which he built a house, now let at 8s. per week, which property insolvent alleges belongs to his children, having been purchased with money lodged in the Savings' Bank by his late wife; she being a free woman, while he was but a ticket-of-leave holder.

In the estate of Adolphus Hukins, a second meeting. Two debts were proved.

In the estate of Christopher Richardson, a single meeting. Three debts were proved, and insolvent was very briefly examined touching an allotment of the Riley Estate, which it appeared he sold about four years since.

In the estate of William H. Fishburne, a first meeting. Two debts were proved.

In the estate of Michael M'Evoy, a third meeting. The official assignee read his report. Insolvent was allowed to retain his household furniture, wearing apparel, and tools of trade, valued at about £7. A special meeting in the same estate, under a Judge's order for examination, was adjourned until the 7th proximo.

SURRENDERS.

James Evers, of Brougham-street, Sydney, stonemason. Liabilities £2287 12s. 6d. Assets—value of real property (mortgaged for £1600) £1200; of personal property, £548 (of which £500 is described as a "legacy under a will in England, for which there are twenty eight claimants"): total £1748. Deficit, £539 12s. 6d.—Mr. Wilson, official assignee.

James Milton Foans, of Woolloomooloo-street, Sydney, gentleman. Liabilities, £175 2s. 3d. Assets—value of personal property, £10. Deficit, £165 2s. 3d.—Mr. Perry, official assignee.

MEETINGS OF CREDITORS.

Tuesday, November 16.—Andrew Farrelly, first, half-past 10. Thomas Harris, second, 11. James and Charles Beaver, adjourned second, 11. Henry Fisher, special, for examination, half-past 11. Charles Tibbey, Abraham Nash, Richard Jones, Patrick Malone, Gunton Taylor, Andrew Coventry, certificates, 12. Charles J. F. Anbusson, adjourned single, 2.

Wednesday, 17.—Henry Fisher, special, for examination, half-past 10. William Abraham, second, half-past 10. Reginald Barlow, third, 11. John Clements, third, 12. Thomas Sinclair, third, 1. Alexander Waugh, third, half-past 2. James Richards, first, 3.—At Bathurst, John M'Anulty, third, 11.

Thursday, 18.—John Newman, first, quarter past 10. John Garsed, adjourned examination, half-past 10. James Arthur, second, 11.

Friday, 19.—John Garsed, adjourned examination, half-past 10. Examination in re Alexander Clarke Davidson as to the admission of a debt, 2.—At Bathurst, William H. Fishburn, second, 11.

COURT OF REQUEST.—£30 JURISDICTION.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 15.

BEFORE the Commissioner and two assessors.

This Court in its £30 Jurisdiction opened yesterday, with the following list of cases:—Undefended, 54; continued, 37; new, 32.

DAY v. SCHOLES.—This was an action for goods sold and delivered. The defence set up was a question of amount, there being no distinct denial of the existence of a debt; the amount admitted to be due was about £7, while the amount claimed was £16 19s. 3d. After some trouble in the investigation of cross-accounts between the parties, the assessors fixed the amount at £9 19s., for which a verdict was returned. For plaintiff, Mr. Michael; for defendant, Mr. Croft.

WILLIAMS v. BUSH.—This was an action on a promissory note for £21. The note was a conditional one, from which it appeared that it was given in consideration of the transfer of a public-house license to Bush. Williams admitted that the transfer never took place, in consequence of the insufficiency of defendant's premises. On the other hand the defendant aware that there was a distinct understanding that the note was to be given up unless the transfer was actually made. This evidence was supported by the testimony of Mr. Richard Driver, who heard the terms of the contract from the plaintiff's own lips. Upon this evidence the Court advised the withdrawal of the case to obtain the testimony of a gentleman who was present at the arrangement. Case therefore withdrawn. For plaintiff, Mr. Newbon; for defendant, Mr. Michael.

M'GREGOR v. REICH.—This was an action of slander between the wives of the parties. The words attributed were of a gross nature—damages were laid at £30. Verdict for defendant. Mr. Redman, for plaintiff; Mr. W. Roberts, for defendant.

The Court adjourned at half-past four till ten o'clock this morning.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

MONDAY.

BEFORE Mr. Forbes, Captain M'Lean, Mr. G. Hill, Mr. Lucas, Mr. Allen, Mr. E. S. Hill, Mr. Arnold, and Mr. Laycock.

Sixteen persons were found guilty of having been drunk in the streets, and were variously sentenced—two to pay 40s. each or to be imprisoned two days, two to pay 20s. each, and the rest 10s. each or to be imprisoned twenty-four hours.

On Thursday, the 28th October, and (by adjournment) on four or five subsequent days, John Aaron Parfitt, of York-street, coach builder, an insolvent, appeared on summons before Mr. Forbes to answer an information by Frederick William Perry, official assignee of his estate, which alleged that, on or about the 1st May last, unlawfully, wilfully, and fraudulently, and with intent to defraud George Wheeler and others, his creditors, did alienate, transfer, give, surrender, pledge, and deliver a certain portion of his estate to the value of 40s. at one time, to wit, seven pairs of carriage lamps of the value of £10, two sets of mail patent axles of the value of £8, and a package of silver-plated furniture of the value of £10; and, on the day abovementioned, did unlawfully, wilfully, and with intent to defraud his creditors, embezzle, conceal, retain, and remove a certain other part of his estate, to the value of 40s. at one time, of the like number, quantity, quality, description, and value, &c., as above-stated, with intent to defraud George Wheeler and others, his creditors. Mr. W. Roberts, assisted by Mr. Graham, conducted the prosecution; defendant was attended by Mr. Moffat. George W. Graham, solicitor, produced a certified copy of the schedule and papers filed in the insolvency of defendant, who surrendered his estate on the 22nd April; the schedule did not appear to have been amended at the second or any other meeting of his creditors, nor does it return as assets any such goods as those mentioned in the information, unless they are included in the term "sundries," in which case they cannot be traced. Cross-examined: Cannot say whether or not the goods named in the information are covered by the entry of goods sold for £180 under a bill of sale to Burt, Hassall, and Co. George Wheeler deposed that he remembered a sale by Mr. Moore, on defendant's premises, under a bill of sale, to Burt, Hassall, and Co.; after that sale, and before the sequestration of defendant's estate, saw on defendant's premises, where he was employed by defendant, more than seven pairs of carriage lamps, several pairs of patent mail axles, a number of springs, and a variety of smith's tools, and Parfitt told him that these things were on the premises at the time of the sale; was present at the sale, but did not see them, nor were they put up to sale; afterwards saw some of those goods at Mr. Clarkson's, in George-street; on the 1st May defendant called him from his work and told him that he had some goods planted, and wanted to make some money on them—that a friend of his had advanced him some money, but as he did not wish to know him (Parfitt) in the transaction, he wanted him (witness) to act for him, and that having sent away seven pair of carriage lamps, he now wished witness to take some axles to the same party, and receive the money; witness declined to have anything to do in the matter; defend

WATER POLICE COURT.

Monday.

Before the Water Police Magistrate and Mr. J. Shoobert.

Elenor Jennell summoned Mrs. M'Leod, charging her with having used threatening language, and the Bench ordered defendant to find sureties for keeping the peace.

Thomas Clark and Adam Louson were charged with having been drunk and disorderly, in Macquarie-place. Mr. Shuttleworth for prosecution. Prisoners had been given into the custody of constable Martin by William Gibbes, at the Chilian Bonded Store, Macquaris-place, where he found them drunk and disorderly. In the evidence of John Black, ship broker, and Joseph Dhanis, Hanoverian consul, it was stated that prisoners were heard singing, cock crowing, both were smoking, and Louson drunk. William Gibbes, who had charge of the stores, deposed that he saw the prisoners at the store on Saturday, and cautioned Clark not to drink or smoke there; they got drunk, and were smoking, however, while witness was away; Louson put the other prisoner in as a keeper, there being a dispute about rent; but when witness objected, Louson said, "Well, I'll remain with him, and take care that he does not drink;" when witness returned to the store he found both drunk, scuffling with each other, and Louson went singing and dancing into the street. Louson (who had gone to the store to put Clark in as a bailiff) stated in defence that one of the witnesses (either Mr. Gibbes or Mr. Dhanis) he could not recollect which, had given them liquor, and that as they (witnesses) were smoking cigars, they (prisoners) had asked leave to smoke their pipes. There was no evidence to show that prisoners had been drunk or disorderly in a public place, the conduct complained of having taken place in the store, and their Worships accordingly dismissed the case.

The remainder of the cases on this day's sheets, to the number of six or seven, were either dismissed, remanded, or lapsed through non-appearance of parties.

MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

An adjourned meeting of the City Council took place at 3 p.m. yesterday. Present—the right worshipful the Mayor, and 13 aldermen.

HARRIS-STREET, FYRMONT.

It was moved by Alderman Raper, and seconded by Alderman Northwood, "That this Council do think it advisable to call for tenders for the keeping in a temporary and passable state of repair Harris-street, Fyrmont, so as the traffic from that locality can pass without any difficulty, from the junction of the above street with Parramatta-street, to the crossing of the Fyrmont Bridge, or further, if seen advisable by the Improvement Committee, for the term of twelve months, at so much per month." The mover contended this was a proclaimed street, a mile in extent, but it yielded no revenue to the Corporation, there being no houses; still, it was highly desirable the holes should be filled in, and repairs carried out, whilst fine weather continued, so as to make the road at all times passable.

Alderman Oatley considered the resolution out of order, as there was no specification or estimate given of the work to be done. No advantage was derived from the road, beyond its being a road for carting stone.

Alderman Thornton asserted this road had long been in a very discraceful state; a plea had been set up by the Corporation that they had proclaimed this street; and this argued the importance of the street. He proposed to move a distinct resolution as an amendment, that the matter should be referred to the Improvement Committee for their consideration and report.

Alderman Murphy supported the resolution. They had done some extensive repairs to the road, but they were now in a position to repair it at a cheaper rate. Though they (the Corporation) derived no benefit from the road, those who brought supplies along it were taxed, and the citizens to whom supplies were brought paid taxes. There were other considerations to render the proposed measure desirable.

The resolution was put and carried.

THE NEW PAVING BILL.

It was moved by Alderman Thornton, and seconded by Alderman Hogan, "That the report of the Finance Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending that the thanks of the Council be conveyed to Mr. Robert Harris for the zeal and disinterestedness exhibited by him in the preparation of the new Paving Act, be adopted."

At the request of the mover, the report was read by the town clerk. The resolution was then put and carried.

ALLOWANCE TO INSPECTOR OF NUISANCES.

It was moved by Alderman Thornton, and seconded by Alderman Oatley, "That the report of the Finance Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending that an allowance at the rate of £50 per annum be made to the Inspector of Nuisances, for forage for a horse until the end of the present year, be adopted." The mover said this was a matter that had engaged the attention of the Finance Committee, who had made every inquiry, and they could recommend for adoption the resolution now before the Council. He could inform the Council that this officer found it impossible to carry out his duties without a horse. In fact, he could not be in south George-street, and north George-street, and other places as widely apart, continually, without the assistance of a horse. There were a great many nuisances in Sydney which required to be looked after, and unless this provision were made it would be impossible to eradicate them; or else they must have an additional staff to carry out the work. This officer only asked to be provided with forage; he would provide the horse himself.

Alderman Northwood, seeing they were nearly at the end of the year, did not think it expedient that they should grant this allowance. When the estimates for the year came up it would be the time to decide whether they should agree to provide this allowance.

Alderman Oatley supported the motion.

Alderman Murphy questioned whether the provision of a horse would remedy the many complaints which existed. He thought they had better let the matter stand over till the end of the year.

Alderman Smithers was in favour of the motion. He had seen the officer jaded by his wide-spread duties, and he had spoken to him in reference to complaints of parties. The answer was, that if he (the inspector) had a horse he could perform his duties in a manner to prevent further complaint.

Alderman Sutherland, though unwilling to oppose a motion coming from a committee, yet thought it would be preferable to divide the service, so as to have men, and not horses, to do the work.

Alderman Thornton replied, and the motion was put and carried.

CITY ENGINEER'S DEPARTMENT.

It was moved by Alderman Thornton, and seconded by Alderman Hogan, "That the report of the Finance Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending that Master Charles Bell be articled for three years to the City Engineer for the time being, at a salary of £50, £70, and £100 per annum for that period, be adopted." The mover believed that he spoke the sentiment of the Corporation when he said that their City Engineer, whose son was here mentioned, was a most zealous, talented, and indefatigable servant of theirs, and one in whose hands his son might be made equally useful to them in process of time.

Alderman Oatley thought it strange that they should take this young man and at once give him a salary without knowing his qualification, and not long after it had been said the engineer's department was overburdened. He thought the City Engineer was amply paid for his services; yet if a report came up recommending such a person he should be disposed they should have Mr. Bell's son appointed; but the idea of creating offices when there was no necessity, required their careful consideration. If they really wanted assistance, let them advertise, and no doubt many would be found glad to offer their sons with a liberal premium.

Alderman Smithers spoke in a similar strain. He thought Mr. Bell's son ought to have been at least a year in the establishment before having a salary.

Alderman Northwood contended that the usage in England, as he had known it, had been for the son to be allowed to go into the establishment his father had charge over. Under such training as Mr. Bell's, he hoped to see this young man—who no doubt was intelligent—quite as well qualified for the duties of the Engineer's office in the course of 18 months as the officer, who having been in receipt of £300 a-year, had just left.

Alderman Murphy and Raper having spoken to the motion,

Alderman Thornton replied, stating that Master Charles Bell had been already nine months in the office, and had given promise of excellent usefulness.

The motion was put and carried.

REPORT ON PETITION.

It was moved by Alderman Northwood, and seconded by Alderman Murphy, "That the report of the Finance Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, on petition from James Powell, praying that further proceedings under a warrant issued by the Police Court to remove a house in Market-street may be stayed, stating that they did not consider that the Council could interfere therewith, be approved."

The motion was put and carried.

DISTRICT SURVEYOR'S SUSPENSION.

It was moved by Alderman Spence, seconded by Alderman Hogan, and resolved, "That the report of the Special Committee appointed to enquire into the circumstances connected with Mr. Gilbert's suspension from his office as district surveyor, recommending that such suspension be confirmed by the Council, be adopted."

BLUE METALLING.

It was moved by Alderman Sutherland, and seconded by Alderman Spens, "That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending that the undermentioned localities, viz., Parramatta-street, from Railway Bridge to Newtown-road, George-street, from Druitt-street to the Woolpack Inn, Hay-street, from George to Sussex-street, Goulburn-street, from George to Sussex streets, George-street, between King and Druitt street's, be blue metalled by day labour, at a cost of £1663, be adopted."

The mover said all these several matters had been reported on by the City Engineer, and the Improvement Committee were desirous they should be done before bad weather set in.

In answer to Alderman Oatley, the Mayor said there were funds to the credit of the Corporation in aid of these works.

The motion was carried.

TENDER FOR KERBING AND GUTTERING.

It was moved by Alderman Sutherland, and seconded by Alderman Northwood, "That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending the acceptance of Arthur Curran's tender for kerbing and guttering throughout the city during the present year be adopted."

The mover observed—The tenders for this work came in at schedule prices, and the committee had recommended this as being the lowest tender.

The motion was put and passed.

CASTLEREAGH-STREET SOUTH.

It was moved by Alderman Sutherland, and seconded by Alderman Northwood, "That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending that Castlereagh-street South be covered with white metal stone, instead of ballast, be adopted." More than a year ago, the mover remarked, it was proposed to lay six inches of ballast upon this roadway. The Improvement Committee had at length recommended a substitution of four inches of metal stone. The difference in the cost would be £77.

The motion was put and passed.

STANLEY STREET.

It was moved by Alderman Murphy, and seconded by Alderman Thornton, "That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending that Stanley-street be formed by day labour at a cost of £100, be adopted.

Alderman Oatley recommended contract works generally, and on account of this work in particular.

Alderman Hogan took an opposite view. There were many contractors who did not employ married men, but single—such, for instance, as lodged with them—and he thought they ought to consider the necessities of the multitude of unemployed going about our city.

Alderman Smithers thought the report did not go far enough. He wished to see measures carried out for the thorough formation, kerbing, and guttering of Stanley-street.

Alderman Sutherland would support the present motion for an expenditure of £100, and he should be willing to advocate the further outlay of £500 for kerbing and guttering at a future day.

Alderman Northwood explained the intention was merely to put this roadway in a passable state, and to clear the gutters.

Alderman Spence was at first inclined to advocate the kerbing and guttering of this street; but let this proposed work be carried out—it would be a good instalment, and no doubt as soon as possible the further work would be carried out.

Alderman Thornton urged the necessity of affording employment for the surplus labour in the city.

Alderman Murphy replied, and the motion was put and passed.

GRANITE CROSSINGS.

It was moved by Alderman Sutherland, and seconded by Alderman Northwood, "That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on 25th October, recommending the construction of two granite crossings at the entrances of the Legislative Council and Assembly, by day labour, at a cost of £60, be adopted." The Corporation had a number of these crossings, which they were anxious should be well appropriated, as in the present instance. The value of the crossings and the cost of laying them would be £60.

The motion was submitted, and carried.

REJECTED TENDERS.

It was moved by Alderman Northwood, and seconded by Alderman Spens, and resolved "That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, stating that as all the tenders for forming and metalling York-street, between Druitt and Market streets, exceeded the estimate of the City Engineer, they could not recommend the acceptance of any one, be approved."

BOURKE-STREET.

It was moved by Alderman Spence, and seconded by Alderman Hogan, "That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending that tenders be invited for forming and gravelling Bourke-street, from the South Head Road to its southern boundary, be adopted."

The report was read.

The motion was put and passed.

BOTANY WORKS.

It was moved by Alderman Thornton, seconded by Alderman Roberts, and resolved, "That the report of the Water Committee received by the Council on the 25th October, recommending the purchase of a rose required for the supply pipe at Botany, be adopted."

DISTRICT SURVEYOR, NO. 3.

It was moved by Alderman Murphy, seconded by Alderman Hogan, and resolved, "That Mr. Matthew W. Parker, temporarily appointed by the Right Worshipful the Mayor, as district surveyor, No. 3, be and he is hereby permanently appointed to that office, with a salary at the rate of £250 per annum."

Alderman Oatley said it had always been the custom to let these vacancies be advertised, and thrown open to public competition. Possibly Mr. Parker might be a competent person; but it might have happened that even a more competent person would have been found, had the usual course of election been adopted. He moved an amendment to the effect that an advertisement be published, inviting parties to compete for the vacant situation.

Alderman Spence, Smithers, and Northwood spoke to the efficient qualifications of Mr. Parker.

Alderman Sutherland would have supported the view of Alderman Oatley, but that on the occasion of the district surveyors being elected there were a great many applications, and among those not chosen were several men of very superior qualifications for the office.

The motion was put and carried.

RILEY-STREET.

It was moved by Alderman Smith, and seconded by Alderman Neale—"That the report of the Improvement Committee, received by the Council on the 11th instant, on petition, praying that Riley-street may be properly drained, stating that they were not prepared to recommend any sewerage works being carried out in that locality at present, be approved."

The motion was submitted and carried.

MACLEAY-STREET.

It was moved by Alderman Thornton, and seconded by Alderman Spence—"That this Council do consider the necessity of repairing Macleay-street, at the crossing of William-street, and submit the question to the Improvement Committee, for their consideration and report."

The motion was put and carried.

GAS LIGHTING.

It was moved by Alderman Thornton and seconded by Alderman Spence, "That it be an instruction to the Lighting Committee to consider and report on the advisability of erecting gas lamps in Macleay-street."

The motion was put and passed.

CAMPBELL-STREET MARKET HOUSE.

It was moved by Alderman Thornton and seconded by Alderman Smithers, "That the City Engineer be directed to cause the roof of the Market House in Campbell-street to be examined, with the view to its being thoroughly repaired if found to require it."

Alderman Northwood did not see why they should give their engineer extra work, when there had been no complaints made respecting the property. Aldermen Oatley and Raper objected to the motion on the same grounds.

Alderman Sutherland said that within about three years this building had cost about £1600, though, if it were sold, perhaps it might not fetch £100. He thought the better course would have been for the tenant to report upon it.

Alderman Thornton was only anxious the City Engineer should depute some one—a district surveyor or other officer—to look at the place, and report accordingly. He had had his attention directed to the faulty condition of the roof, and he had seen a quantity of goods which lay damaged there.

The motion was put and passed, on a division, by 7 against 6.

The Council separated at ten minutes after five o'clock.

The following is the report of the Finance Committee on Mr. Robert Harris' services in connection with the Paving Act:—

Your committee have the honour to report to the Council, with reference to the services rendered by Mr. Robert Harris, in connection with the new Paving Act, that, as the zeal and disinterestedness which Mr. Harris has exhibited in the preparation of that Act have been of value to the city, they conceive that that gentleman is entitled to the thanks of the Council in respect thereof, and they beg to recommend that the same be conveyed to Mr. Harris, in writing, by the Town Clerk.

(Signed) John Williams, chairman.

Town Hall, 25th October.

AUSTRALIAN WESLEYAN MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

In pursuance of advertisement, the annual meeting of the York-street Branch of this Society was held last evening, in the York-street Church.

The meeting was not very fully attended, and by far the greater part of the audience was composed of ladies.

The proceedings were commenced by singing an appropriate hymn, after which the Rev. Mr. Hassel, at great length, offered up prayer.

On the motion of Mr. Hassel, Mr. George Wigram Allen was appointed to take the chair.

The Chairman, in a few words, which were scarcely audible in the remote spot in which the reporters were placed, opened the business of the meeting. He said, this was the second anniversary of the York-street Branch of the Society at which he had presided, and it was with much pleasure that he did so on the present occasion, as he could congratulate them on the success of the exertions they had made. It was not necessary for him to address them at any length on the interesting subjects which would engage their attention, and which would be presented to them in speeches of more eloquence and effect than he could aspire to. There had been so many meetings lately, that little but the exact subject in hand was left to speak about, but he thought that the time chosen for this meeting was well selected. He now called on the Rev. Mr. Miller to read the report.

The Secretary (Mr. Miller) then proceeded to read the report, a document too lengthy to insert, but highly interesting, comprising details in figures of the success of the Mission, in all the different circuits in which it is engaged. The accounts of the general Society were favourable, the amount collected having been £12,953 6s. 3d., and the expenditure £9332 8s., leaving a balance to the credit of the Society of £3620 18s. In the Sydney North Circuit the subscriptions and collections had been £496 10s., less expenses £8 7s. 3d. The details of the report extended to the number of preachers, catechists, and members of the Church, in all the different circuits, and also the establishment of schools and churches. These, of course, were exceedingly voluminous but the result showed in almost every instance some steps of the progress in the operation of the Society. The reports from the New Zealand branches of the Society were specially interesting, as the course of the mission had there been interrupted to some extent by casual disaster. At New Plymouth war had broken out between the natives and the Government, on the land question; but the differences, it was believed, were now settled, and the Wesleyan missionaries had done their share in endeavouring to restore peace. The district of Wellington, too, had been visited by a flood, which had swept away their church; but new churches were building at Wellington, in a satisfactory manner. With regard to the islands of the South Seas, the proceedings of the Society had been propitious. Their missionaries and preachers, their schools, and the admitted members of the church, had been considerably augmented, and although the want of labourers in the vineyard was still felt, some progress had been made. They had encouraging accounts from the Home Society of trained ministers being sent out, and there was reason to believe that, with this aid, under God's providence, the Society would go on advancing. The rev. secretary further added that the Rev. Alexander Salmon, who had offered to take part in the meeting, was unavoidably detained from it by severe indisposition.

The Rev. W. Curnow moved the first resolution—"That the report now read be received, and that this meeting desires to express its gratitude to Almighty God for the encouraging measure of success vouchsafed to the Australasian Wesleyan Missionary Society, especially in the Feejeean Group, during the past year." He thought no one doubted but that the heathen had a claim upon them for their Christian sympathy. There had of late years been many instances of British charity. There had been the Crimean and the Indian Relief Funds. The columns of the daily papers had contained subscriptions for charitable and other purposes, which showed the liberality of the people. Our national character was in our Christian benevolence. Some, however, who were benevolent and considerate thought it beneath them to identify themselves with the cause of missions; but he would remind them that every individual was but a link in the great human chain, and that the missionary enterprise was a great characteristic of the nineteenth century. Time was when missionaries went to their fields of labour with their lives in their hands, but now they were hailed by men of commerce. They had now, too, a missionary literature. Government saw the advantages of missionary enterprise. They had a good cause, and they knew it, and ought to exert themselves to the utmost to carry it out to its fullest extent. Cases and causes had their means, and means must have their agents. Their vessel was a first-rate vessel, but it was poorly manned, and therefore he hoped that the Church would go forth and set up her banners in the name of Jesus. (Cheers.) They could not think of man but as a great being. It seemed as though he was made to bless his fellow man, and when he did not bless him, so great was his influence upon his fellows, that he might be a curse to him rather than a blessing. How important, then, was a wider spread of Christian principle and sympathy! They had power and yet they wanted power,—they wanted the power of Elijah, of Luther, of the Wesleys and the Whitfields. (Cheers.) The Church lacked soul. They wanted the spirit that said, "these things must be, and they shall be." (Cheers.) Other men talked of bleeding for liberty and they did bleed; they, however, talked of Christian sympathy, but how did they show it? The great primary want of the Church was not money. They wanted Christian hearts—help from heaven—and then there would be no lack of money. (Cheers.) It was evident they had a good cause, and some means, but still they required greater help; and now came the appeal. Disinterestedness was the very soul of nobility of character. The great outstanding idea of Jesus Christ was benevolence. Very little could be done without self-sacrifice. In advocating the cause of missions, they stood upon the sacred ground of their missionary fathers. All honour to their names. (Cheers.) Humble may have been their origin, and modest their intellectual capacity, but still their names would be remembered, when the bubble reputation of many, who had devoted their talents to less holy purposes—had burst for ever. It appeared to him that the cry for the extension of the mission cause came from all quarters of the earth. The world seemed to be in a very remarkable state—men thought more of religion than formerly. The European nations were undergoing a great change, and the British colonies were bringing men of all nations into contact with European manners and habits of thought. The vasts continents of Asia, and Africa, the millions yet in the arms of paganism in other parts of the globe—was there no appeal from them? (Cheers.) Then there was the future. They sometimes looked with gloominess upon that future, but with the promises of the Father and the influences of the Spirit, he thought they might defy the world to say that all mankind would not be yet evangelised. (Cheers.) The report said that already the fields were white for the harvest, and by and bye they would bear the harvest home. He had much pleasure in moving the first resolution.

The Rev. W. Kelynack seconded the resolution. He thought the position they occupied in Christian missions called not only for their warmest gratitude, but also for their unwearied exertions, although they had the vantage ground of their predecessors. The great experiment had, however, been made, and it had been found that it was only by the simple truth of God that the regions of heathenism and error were to be evangelised. Great difficulties had been overcome in the accomplishment of that which religion had already wrought. She had planted herself beneath the stronghold of heathenism, and in the partial success which they had achieved they had wherewith to justify the confidence that full and final triumph would eventually crown their arms. (Cheers.) The rev. gentleman then alluded to the state of India—the cruelties of Indian idolatry—the great barrier of caste—and other difficulties in the way of the Indian mission cause,—not the least of which was the refusal of the shelter of the British flag by the English Government, while they derived a revenue from heathen temples, and at the same time rendered them liberal support. (Hear, hear.) But thank God none of these things had been enough to exterminate Christianity from India. (Cheers.) They had done much justice, and properly so, to military heroism—they had grieved the loss of Havelock and other heroes of the Indian war, but there was a reluctance to render that honour which was due to moral heroism—to those who had fought the battles of the mission field, in order to wrest the sceptre from paganism—who proclaimed the tidings of the world's redemption in heathen lands. (Hear, hear.) They gave to India the Word of God in the native tongue, and showed the absurdity of the shastres—they had given education to the people—they had had to fight the Goliath of Brahminism, not in the armour of Saul, but with a few plain stones from the brook. (Cheers.) The rev. gentleman then alluded to the progress of the mission cause, its influence in the abolition of the "suttee" in India,—the diminution of fear of the priests,—the spread of just views of the mission character,—the continual accession of native converts—and the just appreciation of the power of religion by the success of missionary labour. (Cheers.) The cannibal Fejee and the haughty Hottentot had heard the Word, but the work would not be carried out successfully unless it stirred them up to increased ardour. To be cold in such a cause was the warmest censure. The brow of every man ought to burn with shame whose heart beat slowly in such a glorious cause. (Cheers.) Were they to fail to respond to the appeal which was made to them from heathen lands, from the graves of their missionary fathers, and from those who were now labouring in the field? No—they would follow in the path of those who had gone to glory, who had laboured successfully in the mission cause—that cause which Christ himself espoused when he walked upon the earth. (Cheers.) He most cordially seconded the resolution.

The motion was then put and carried unanimously.

The Rev. J. Eggleston rose to move the following resolution—"That this meeting regards the increase of native converts, and the perils in which they are placed by the machinations of Popery, as creating a necessity for a reinforcement of the missionary band, and resolves to render increasing help to the Society, in providing the requisite means." He had listened with great pleasure to the speeches which had been delivered on the moving and seconding of the previous resolutions—speeches which had so lucidly and forcibly illustrated the object which had brought them together that evening. The reverend speaker then proceeded to speak of the successes which had marked the labours of the Missionary Society in the Feejean Islands. But now the result of their labours demanded further support in the missionary field. The converts in those islands were exposed to the machinations of the Romish Church for want of ministerial and missionary agents there. When they looked at the number attending the churches and schools, and when they remembered that they were exposed to temptation, they would feel they ought to increase their staff if they felt the importance of the work they had already performed. He was impressed with the fact that, unless they prosecuted their missions among the Maori, in New Zealand, a great falling off from Christianity would be the result in that island. The influence of Christianity would lose its hold upon the native mind, and there would be engendered a spirit of hostility and enmity between the natives and the colonists, which must end in the destruction of one or other. This was the state of the missions in that island. He had indeed lately heard of the great necessity which existed for more expanded action in that land, but he would not weary the meeting with recounting them. He hoped, however, that fresh exertions would be made until they had finally achieved the great work which they had undertaken. He would conclude with moving the resolution.

Rev. J. Watsford rose to second the resolution. He was the more ready and pleased to take a part in that meeting, from the fact he had laboured in the missionary field in Feejee. While there, he had witnessed acts which would thrill with horror the hearts of his hearers were he to recount them. This he would not do, as they had often been recounted before. There was still a wide field of labour there, for though much had been done, more yet remains unaccomplished. The great and eternal God was unknown while gods of beasts and birds and reptiles were worshipped; still the truths which, in the face of danger and contempt and obloquy, they strove to disseminate, had, in the hearts of many a fruitful soil, brought forth fruits meet for repentance. The missionaries faced the dangers of that heathen land in the consciousness that the gospel was powerful to save, and he thanked God that it had triumphed and greatly prevailed. They had seen hundreds of instances of cannibalism given up—the ovens overthrown, and the amputating knife cast away, and men seeking the peace of the gospel. Hundreds now awaited the sacrament of baptism, and hundreds received the sacrament of the body and blood of Christ. But there was more than this,—hundred yet remained in their primitive and heathen darkness, and while the work was still before them, the missionary would never cease his labour till the last dark spirit should be regenerated and brought to Christ. Another great blessing had attended the work of the missionary—that was, the extinction, to a great extent, of polygamy. But not only was the work of Christianity extending in foreign lands, but he was rejoiced to find that here, at home, the work of the Gospel was exerting its blessed influence. Last night, at Surry Hills, there was a revival, and there he saw forty or fifty penitents cry out that the spirit of God might be poured out upon them, and that night, before coming to the meeting, he went into that little chapel, and there he saw some forty or fifty individuals kneeling around the penitent form. This was the result of these spiritual revivals, which he hoped to see extend themselves throughout the land. In Feejee, too, they had their revival, and the success that attended the revival was such as to give them the greatest hope in the future. There were many parts of Feejee yet unvisited, there was much work to be done; but a sufficient number of missionaries were wanted, and he hoped that the people of the colony would endeavour to have labourers sent into the field. They wanted native teachers, but these they could not have until a sufficient number of missionaries were sent out to teach them and instruct the native youths for the work. He loved to see the missionary cause progressing, and he was sure that this society, with the aid of kindred societies, would prosper till the whole world was brought to the feet of Jesus. He had much pleasure in seconding the resolution.

The resolution was then put and carried.

The Rev. James Watkin moved the next resolution as follows:—"That the thanks of the meeting be given to the committee and collectors, for their valuable services during the past year, and that the following gentlemen form the committee for the ensuing year:—Messrs. Caldwell, Speer, Inder, Callighan, Love, Cornell, Earnshaw, Moffit, M'Arthur, Vickery, Peacock, Little, Barker, Stuart, Muntz, Haigh, Kingsborough, and the Rev. R. Mansfield; secretary, Rev. J. G. Millard; treasurer, Mr. Love."

The Rev. W. R. Piddington seconded the resolution, which was put and carried.

The thanks of the meeting were accorded to Mr. Allen for his conduct as chairman of the meeting.

A collection was made, which amounted to £29 3s. 6d.

The meeting closed with the benediction.

The Telegraph.—At 2 p.m. yesterday, it was reported from Albury to the Sydney station that there was a breakage in the wire between Longwood and Benalla, on the Victorian side. The line inspectors between these places were at once despatched to repair the damage, which was completed by 6 p.m., when circuit was again obtained from Sydney through to Melbourne. Several messages for England, to be forwarded by the Emeu steamer, leaving Melbourne at daylight this morning, were sent through from the Sydney office last night.

Errata.—In the Australian Leaflets, of yesterday, second column, for "anything but ladies," read "any but ladies;" for "falsehoods," read "falsehood;" for "any one to-night," read "any to-night."

Crown Law Officers.—The following appointments are announced in a Government Gazette Extraordinary issued yesterday:—The Honorable Alfred James Peter Lutwyche, Esq., to be Attorney-General of New South Wales; the Honorable William Bede Dalley, Esq., to be Solicitor-General of New South Wales, also to be a member of the Executive Council.

The Wynyard-square Nuisance.—A correspondent, signing himself "One of the Square," complains of the great nuisance the omnibus stand has become to the residents in that locality. He says: "No doubt, as vehicles for the convenience of the public generally, omnibuses are most accommodating, but when they become stationed on their reserve I assure you it is most disgraceful and disgusting to hear the abominable language used, and see the shameful tricks constantly practised by the parties by whom the busses are driven, combined with the boys who accompany them. Wynyard-square is at present decorated with buildings of a superior style, and the inhabitants of such would view it as a very great favour if Mr. Stubbs would exert himself and get the nuisance of which I complain removed to a place more suitable than the present; for, frequently have I heard the residents of the square observe that they would often like to see their children perambulate and play in the square, but the above nuisance which I have mentioned is an objection. I think, if the piece of land reserved for the Post-Office was appointed for a 'bus stand it would be more appropriate than the present, and would be viewed as a very great favour by the Wynyard-square residents."

The Search for Gold.—The prospecting parties engaged by the committee continue at work, but at present no definite results have been obtained. Indeed, from the short time, only a week, the men have been at work, this was hardly to be expected. Yesterday, quite a large party of the committee went out to Muthilly, where there are 24 men at work under their directions. Good prospects continue to be found, and the men are sanguine of ultimately hitting a rich lead. Various members of the committee brought in on their return samples of the gold, amounting altogether to about 1½ ounce. On Thursday afternoon a prospect of a dwt. to a bucket and a half of washing stuff was found, and quite a rush ensued to the spot, every one thinking they had hit it at last. This piece of good luck, however, was not followed up by others. The majority of the committee are of opinion that success will attend the present effort, and they are determined to persevere. The deepest hole yet sunk is 22 feet, and this is not yet bottomed. The granite, however, has been generally reached at a much less depth. A quantity of blasting powder, some jumpers, and fusees, are to be sent out, to determine whether the granite is really the hard rock, or whether a second bottom exists. A report is current that some Chinamen who visited the place obtained some six ounces of gold, but we are unable to vouch for its correctness.—Goulburn Chronicle.

Coroner's Inquests.—An inquest on view of the body of Andrew M'Quillan, a pensioner of the 99th Regiment, aged 52, was held at the Hargrave's Hotel, Woolloomooloo-street, yesterday. Deceased was father of five children. His wife was in gaol, and, with one of the daughters, was a reputed prostitute. For three or four days during the last week, up to his death on Saturday, he had lain neglected in the kitchen of an unoccupied dwelling—the only services rendered him being the unavailing attentions of well-disposed neighbours. He complained of great thirst, and of having had a severe fall some time back; but he appeared rather to be suffering the extreme penalty of an inveterate drunken habit, aggravated by want of food (though bread was found on the shelf) and comfortable lodging. The medical evidence assumed the cause of death to be partial paralysis, induced by the causes referred to, or bad living and exposure. Verdict—"Died from neglect and exposure, accelerated by drunken habits."—An inquest was held yesterday, on view of the body of George Smyth, a native of Kent, aged 32, who died shortly after going to bed on Saturday night. Deceased had been a quarryman, working for some time past at Newcastle, and his wife was out at service in Sydney. They came together on Saturday evening, at lodgings in Roxburgh-place, Willmot-street. Deceased was a very sober and steady man at all times. He had a deep excoriated ulcer on his right leg, arising out of a bite by a centipede nine months ago, but it appeared he regularly washed and dressed the sore (which gave him no pain), and had done so on Saturday evening. His wife did not observe anything the matter with him in other respects than this when he retired to rest, about half-past ten o'clock, but about five minutes afterwards, she found him fainting. The inmates of the house were quickly in attendance, and medical help was obtained, but within 20 minutes of the attack of the fit death took place. The medical evidence went to show that the ulcerous wound had been well attended to; that its progress in healing must necessarily be slow, from the circulation being languid where it was situate; and that, in all probability, death had not resulted from this sore, but from the rupture of a large vessel near the heart.—Verdict: "Natural causes."

The Disorderly Meetings Bill.—Perhaps the most un-English and unconstitutional bill ever introduced into a British legislature passed its second reading in the Legislative Council on Wednesday—the Disorderly Meetings and Party Processions Bill of Mr. Fellows. The measure restricts within the narrowest limits the right to petition. Open-air meetings may only be held within certain hours, and any person who shall take part in, by being present at, any popular demonstration of loyalty and respect to the Governor, at which a congratulatory address is presented, renders himself liable to three months' hard labour. Even should the bill pass its third reading in the Council, it will of course be thrown out by the Assembly; but that such a bill should receive the sanction of one branch of the Legislature against the indignant protest of its wisest members shows a lamentable ignorance on the part of honorable members of the stuff that Victorian colonists are made of. The bill is all the more obnoxious as it is perfectly unnecessary, and only provides a dangerous and unconstitutional remedy for an emergency fully met by the ordinary Police Act.—Melbourne Herald.

Election of Mayor.—On Wednesday last, at the annual meeting of the Melbourne City Council, Mr. Walsh was unanimously elected Mayor. The Herald says he is a much-respected tradesman of Melbourne, and, as we are inclined to think, is thoroughly qualified to fulfil the duties of the chief magistracy.

On the evening of the 8th instant, a meeting of the Church of England Sunday School Institute was held at the School of Arts. The meeting was addressed by the Bishop and Dean of Melbourne, the Chief Justice, Mr. Colin Campbell, and other gentlemen. Judging by the first annual report read last night, the institution is yet in an embryo state, and the funds at present totally inadequate to provide the working materials necessary to its success. The scheme of religious instruction which it embraces is, however, systematic and comprehensive; and the interest exhibited at the meeting, in conjunction with the active exertions of many of our leading clergymen and laymen, is a strong guarantee for the progressive advancement and ultimate prosperity of the institution.—Age.

To the Sheep Owners of Australia.

10 of the celebrated Peruvian Llamas, just arrived by the Light of the Age.

BURT and CO. have been favoured with instructions from Messrs. George A. Lloyd and Co. to sell by auction, THIS DAY, the 16th instant, at 12 o'clock,
10 of those extremely rare, scarce, and highly valuable animals the Alpaca, or Llama, being the pick of the celebrated flock of 23 recently brought to London at an enormous cost.
Many will remember that a few years since a subscription was entered into here in order to import a few of these animals from Peru; and an agent was sent there for that purpose, but found it impracticable to procure any.
The importation of so large a number into Great Britain must be regarded as an achievement of no small importance. The value of the fleece for manufacturing purposes has, within the last few years, been fully proved by the fact that the wool has risen nearly tenfold, and has become an article of great value. The knowledge of the circumstance has caused the Peruvian Government to pass stringent laws forbidding the exportation of the llama from their ports.
These beautiful animals are now on view, at the Bazaar, Pitt and Castlereagh streets. The utmost care has been taken of them during the voyage, and they are in sound healthy condition.
The introduction of these animals to Australia is an event of national importance, opening up to the flockmasters a new source of incalculable wealth. It is estimated that they will shear on an average from 10 to 15 lbs. wool each animal, the value of which in London is from 2s. 6d. to 3s. per lb. They are extremely hardy, very docile, and easily managed.
The Auctioneers particularly invite the attention of all interested in the welfare of the colony to this most important sale.

Postponed until 17th instant.
The Racehorse "Eureka."
For Peremptory Sale.

BURT and CO. are instructed to sell by auction, at their Bazaar, Pitt and Castlereagh streets, on WEDNESDAY, the 17th instant,
The noted race horse "Eureka," by Sir Hercules.
"Eureka" is so well known to racing men that comment is entirely out of the question; he is now in exceedingly good condition, and very fresh on his legs. Can be seen at the Bazaar.

To Stud Masters.
Thoroughbred Fillies.

BURT and CO. are instructed by Edward Weston, Esq., Horsley, to sell by auction, at the Bazaar, Pitt and Castlereagh streets, on FRIDAY next, the 19th instant,

Positive Sale.
By order of the Mortgagee.
Valuable City Property for the Working Man, May's-lane, Parramatta-street, opposite the Bristane Distillery.

G. F. BAKER has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Land Sale Rooms, Pitt and Bridge streets, on MONDAY, 29th November, at 11 o'clock,
A snug brick house, of three large rooms, substantially built, a convenient yard at back, and water laid on, situate in May's-lane, close to Parramatta-street.
The Auctioneer would strongly recommend the above property, as worthy of notice, either as an investment, in a locality where houses are never empty, or for the mechanic, who at a small outlay can purchase a snug freehold, and be no longer under rent.
For further particulars, apply to the Auctioneer; or Messrs. Milford and Croft, solicitors, Pitt-street.
Terms at sale.

By order of the Mortgagee.
Two Acres of Vineyard Land, adjoining Lindsay and Water Reserve, Tarban Creek, Parramatta River, close to the Hunter's Hill Wharf.

G. F. BAKER has received instructions to sell by public auction, at his Land Sale Rooms, Pitt and Bridge streets, on MONDAY, 29th November, at 11 o'clock,
A block of land, containing two acres of first-class vineyard land. It is situate close to the head of Tarban Creek, to the road from Kissing Point to Hunter's Hill; has a never-failing fresh-water creek running through the land, which terminates at the water reserve supplying Tarban Creek Asylum.
Land in this neighbourhood has lately become so valuable in consequence of continued application, makes this a desirable opportunity for parties on the look-out for a choice spot, this having been selected with great care.
For further particulars apply to the auctioneer, or Messrs. Milford and Croft, solicitors, Pitt-street.
Terms at sale.

Town of Gladstone,
Port Curtis.
The Gladstone Hotel, with Two Substantial Stores and convenient Wharf, with a large Block of Land in the best position in the town.

R. P. RICHARDSON has received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Bank Buildings, George-street, on FRIDAY, 26th November, at 11 o'clock,
The unexpired term of lease of the following choice allotments in the town of Gladstone:—Allotments 10, 11, 18, and 19 of section 1, and allotments Nos. 12, 13, 14, 15, 38, 39, and 40 of section 2; having about ten years to run, at an annual rental of £89. On which there are erected:
The Gladstone Hotel, a weatherboard building, 61 feet by 41 feet, containing six rooms, verandah all round, and fitted with every convenience; also large kitchen, slabbed, floored, with verandah, &c.
Two substantial stores, with a fine wharf.
The whole of the land and premises are sub-let to Mr. Hardie, at a rental of £209 per annum, on a lease having about two years to run.
☞ No one will deny the importance and value of property in the town of Gladstone, which there cannot be a doubt is in the centre of a vast gold producing district, now on the eve of being developed.
A large amount has been expended in erecting the above described premises, which are now in full trade, doing a flourishing business.
Plan and further particulars at the Rooms.
Terms at sale.

Gladesville, Parramatta River.

Unreserved Sale of the remaining portion of that splendid Property known as Looking-glass Point, and Bedlam Ferry, at which point the Parramatta steamers call, on their passage up and down the river.

R. P. RICHARDSON has received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Bank-buildings, George-street, on MONDAY, 20th December, at 11 o'clock,
The unsold portion of that valuable and truly important marine property, on the Parramatta River, at Bedlam Ferry, known as Gladesville, the remaining lots of which are now offered for public competition, to close the accounts of the estate. They comprise waterside frontages to the Parramatta River, having sufficient draught of water for vessels of any tonnage to go alongside the wharf; also, several blocks on the higher ground, commanding magnificent views.
The salubrity of the air, and the quiet beauty of the scenery, are so well known that it would be superfluous for the auctioneer to give anything like a minute description of the advantages and attractions of this favoured spot, feeling assured that many have both seen and appreciated the delightful position, and are only awaiting a favourable opportunity to purchase a portion.
☞ A spacious and commodious wharf has been erected for the use of this fine estate, at which the Parramatta steamers call regularly; and there is a good road, of easy ascent, from this wharf, which passes through the property, and which has been made at a great cost to afford every facility to the residents to convey the produce of their orchards and vegetable gardens to the Sydney market without the necessity of boat—the steamers taking cargo and passengers direct from the wharf.
The lots to be offered contain from one to three acres, as suitable sites for villas, with sufficient ground for gardens and orchards. They command extensive and enchanting views of Sydney and its suburbs on the east, the river and numerous bays in front, and a large portion of the Parramatta district on the west.
A large plan is on view at the Sale Rooms, and intending purchasers are earnestly invited to visit the estate prior to the sale.
For terms, which will be very liberal, and further particulars, apply to the auctioneer.

PRELIMINARY NOTICE.—The Great Unreserved Sale of the Broughton Estate, Balmain, subdivided into blocks, suitable for villa sites, gardens, &c., will take place on the ground on an early date next month.
This well-known valuable estate is in the vicinity of Garryowen, Austenham, and other first-class properties, and will be sold in blocks to suit purchasers; and several lots have frontages to the picturesque waters of Long Cove, immediately opposite Barnstaple Manor, the residence and property of B. C. Rodd, Esq.
Full particulars in a future advertisement.
A. P. RICHARDSON, auctioneer.

A Handsome and Roomy Family Residence, well-situated in Palmer-street, having a double verandah in front, being No. 65, a few doors South of William-street, directly opposite the large paddock known as Mrs. Burdekin's.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD will sell by auction, at the City Mart, 362, George-street, on THURSDAY, the 18th instant, at 11 o'clock,
A two-storied brick and stone-built House, situated on the east side of Palmer-street, containing six rooms, kitchen, and servant's room—a double verandah in front, and a small balcony in the rear; the first story is of stone, the second of brick—a back entrance from a lane.
These premises have been erected and finished at a very considerable cost, and are fit for the reception of a respectable family. Immediate possession can be given.
Terms—25 per cent cash deposit, and 3, 6, 9 and 12 months for the remainder, with bank interest added.
☞ The title perfectly satisfactory.

The Estate of the late Captain Munn.

Land at Port Macquarie.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD have received instructions to sell by auction, at the City Mart, 362, George-street, on THURSDAY, the 2nd December, at 11 o'clock,
All that valuable estate, situate at Robert's Plains, on the Wilson River, containing 800 acres, without exception the best farm in the whole district, called Killwinning, but generally known throughout the district as the Hatch, together with all the improvements.
The greater portion of these 800 acres is of the very best description, and the whole nearly level. A fence from river to river, of about 300 yards, would enclose about 500 acres out of the 800; the other boundaries would be a navigable river frontage of about seven miles.
If not sold in one, as a homestead, it will be sold in eight farms, of 100 acres each, as per plan at the City Mart.
Also, at the same time and place, the Irvine Estate, comprising all those 2560 acres situated on the River Hastings, and intersected by Rawden Island and Maria Creeks, opposite Saint Rocks, the residence of Mr. Government Surveyor Raife, and adjoining the property of Mr. M'Donough.
This property has been subdivided into farms varying from 50 to 200 acres each, and comprises some of the best land in the colony, heavily timbered, and well watered. The river is navigable for upwards of a mile along the frontage of this estate, and is admirably adapted for the timber trade, from which many thousands of pounds worth of iron bark and shingle wood can be procured and shipped alongside many of these allotments.
☞ It was for the timber alone that the late Captain Munn selected these 2560 acres; should a purchaser wish it, the whole estate will be put up in one lot.
Terms at sale.

The Estate of the late James Munn, Esq.

BOWDEN and THRELKELD are favoured with instructions from the executors under the will and the attorneys of the legatees to sell by auction, at the City Mart, 362, George-street, on THURSDAY, the 2nd day of December next, at 11 o'clock,
The whole of that valuable waterside property situated at Miller's Point, adjoining Captain Smith's wharf, long known as Mr. Munn's shipbuilding yard, including, also, the large stone-built house and several allotments in Munn-street.
A plan will be on view at the Rooms in a few days, shewing the way in which it is proposed to subdivide and let this very valuable property.
Title, satisfactory, particulars of which may be had at the offices of Messrs. WANT, solicitors, Pitt-street.

MESSRS. W. DEAN and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, on TUESDAY, 23rd November, at 11 o'clock,

The above extensive shipment of Parisian furniture,

Ex Benjamin,

This shipment comprises one of the most useful, and at the same time elaborate selections of furniture ever offered to an Australian audience.

The auctioneers, on behalf of the importers, wish to explain distinctly that, as the Benjamin is direct from Bordeaux, there can be no doubt as to the shipment being of bona fide French manufacture, and would remind the public that, as numerous parcels of very inferior goods have been brought into the market and sold as Parisian, it is necessary to be explicit in describing this truly magnificent furniture. It seldom occurs that such an opportunity is offered of procuring so genuine an article of such a recherché description. Messrs. W. Dean and Co., therefore, confidently recommend all parties requiring a superior class of furniture, either for their own use or otherwise, to attend the sale of the above choice shipment at the French Auction Rooms, on TUESDAY, 23rd instant.

Terms liberal, declared at sale.

Terms at sale.

MORT and CO. have received instructions to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 17th November, One undivided fifth share in the Wheatsheaf Inn, and premises, situate opposite the Benevolent Asylum, corner of George-street and Parramatta-street, having a frontage of 35 feet 8 inches, more or less, by a depth of 126 feet 4 inches, more or less, and producing a present rental of £4 per week.

RICHMOND RIVER.

That MAGNIFICENT First-class PASTORAL PROPERTY known as the LISMORE RUNS, and 6000 CATTLE, more or less, on the Richmond River; together with a choice lot of Horse Stock, and including about 1000 ACRES of PURCHASED LAND.

Terms:—One-fourth cash, one-fourth at six months, residue for a term of years, with security on the property for the credit portion.

MORT and CO have been instructed by William Wilson, Esq., to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, on FRIDAY, 17th December, at 11 o'clock,

That celebrated cattle property the LISMORE RUNS and STOCK.

These runs comprise as follows:
The LISMORE, or HEAD STATION,
DUNGARRUBBA. and
TUCKIE TUCKIE STATIONS.

They are situated on the Northern Bank of THE RICHMOND RIVER, and are bounded for upwards of 80 MILES BY DEEP WATER FRONTAGE, navigable as far as the Village of Lismore for vessels of 100 to 120 tons; and having in front of them on the south bank along the river, the celebrated runs of Messrs. EDWARD HAMILTON ALEXANDER MACKELLAR, and CLARK IRVING.

Lismore is distant about 90 MILES FROM GRAFTON, the weekly mail from that town passing the station, and there being good inns and accommodation along the line of road. It is also about 70 MILES FROM THE ELBOW on the Clarence River, where the steamer to and from Sydney passes regularly; and also about FIFTY MILES FROM ACHESON'S NEW SALTING ESTABLISHMENT.

There is also weekly mail communication with Brisbane.

THE IMPROVEMENTS upon these runs are very extensive, and are as follows:—

At LISMORE—The dwelling-house, with storehouses, out offices, kitchen, &c., forming a most desirable residence, fit for the occupation of a respectable family
A productive orchard, and a vegetable garden with shrubberies, &c.
Paddock and stockyards complete
A boiling-down establishment, with all the requisites for extensive boiling, slaughtering, salting, &c., with stockyards, paddocks, punt, and boats, &c.
There is also a similar boiling-down establishment at Dungarrubba, and on other portions of the runs there are stockyards, huts, paddocks, and other improvements.

The Lismore runs include about 1000 ACRES OF PURCHASED LAND, all of it of the very finest quality, and available for subdivision into small farms, either for lease or sale, and from which a very large return might at once be realised. In addition to the lands already purchased, several other blocks have been applied for, and are now under survey, the pre-emptive right to which will go with the runs.

The stock to be sold with these runs will consist of about 6000 HEAD OF CATTLE, more or less, bred from pure, half, and three-parts bred bulls, from the CELEBRATED HERDS OF MESSRS. HAMILTON AND DENNISON, and forming one of the finest herds in the colony.

 Two splendid entire horses, some excellent mares, and young stock, all well bred, to be taken at a valuation.

Also

Stores, implements, drays, carts, working cattle, boiling plant, &c., to be taken at a valuation.

THE LISMORE STATIONS are so well-known that Mort and Co. do not consider it necessary to add to the above simple detail, being admitted on all hands to form one of the FINEST CATTLE PROPERTIES IN THE COLONY. Their established fattening qualities, the vast extent of river frontage, and their immediate proximity by water carriage to a shipping port, all entitle them to the consideration of every man connected with squatting, and who may be desirous either of establishing himself, or extending his operations. There is a most advantageous market on the spot for the sale of fat stock to the small settlers and farmers of the surrounding district, the numerous sawyers, and also for the supply of the Fairfield gold-fields—all of which contribute to make the proprietor of Lismore comparatively independent of other markets. The great extent and value of the freehold lands ought not to be lost sight of, whether as a source of income by leasing, or a larger return by sale thereof in small farms, for which there is a daily increasing demand.

PLAN on view at the Rooms, Pitt-street.

By order of the Mortgagee.

MORT and CO. have been instructed to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 17th November,

That valuable freehold property known as THE DUNDEE STEAM FLOUR MILL, situate in the town of Dundee, as it now stands, in complete working order.

The BUILDINGS consist of the mill, and a substantial 4-room dwelling-house, with out-house, &c., all built of wood, and in excellent repair.

The ENGINE is high-pressure, of eight-horse power, driving 3-feet stones, and grinding 200 bushels per week. The whole occupy a block of land containing about acres 1 rood and 8 perches, bounded by the Severn River and Hogue's Creek on two sides, and enclosed with a substantial three-rail fence. About half an acre of it is under cultivation as a garden, and is enclosed with close paling fence.

The above snug property is situate in Dundee, on the Great North Road, and one of the most rising towns in the New England district. It is about 80 miles from Armidale, and is in the centre of one of the finest agricultural districts in the colony. So good an opportunity is rarely to be met with for an INDUSTRIOUS PRACTICAL MAN to establish himself in a flourishing and rapidly improving community.

PLAN on view at the Rooms.

TITLE.—For full particulars, apply to Messrs. Milford and Croft, solicitors, Pitt-street.
Terms at Sale.

MORT and CO. have been instructed to sell by public auction, at the Rooms, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 17th November,

The residue of the lease of all that parcel of land, commencing on the south side of the New South Head Road, at the north-west corner of an allotment leased to John M'Burney, bearing westerly twenty-seven feet, on the west by a line bearing southerly one hundred feet, on the south by a reserved passage bearing easterly twenty-seven feet, and on the east by a line dividing it from the said John M'Burney's allotment, bearing northerly one hundred feet to the point of commencement, together with the improvements thereon

To the Editor of the Sydney Morning Herald.

SIR,—The importance of the Municipal Act lately passed, is shown by the eagerness with which the inhabitants of town and country districts are taking the preliminary steps to form themselves into corporations. A petition from this hamlet is in course of signature, purporting to be from the electors of the district, praying that the whole of the Balmain and Birch Grove estates many be included in a Municipal Council.

As there has been no meeting of the inhabitants called, or committee formed, I submit that this petition ought not to be presented, and can only be considered a hole-and-corner petition, which is most objectionable.

My own opinion is that the large tract of land proposed to be included would render the working of the Council unmanageable, and that in the thickly inhabited portion of the town, from Mr. Booth's mill inclusive) in Johnson's Bay, to the Dry Dock (also inclusive) in Waterview Bay, would give employment enough for the next five years.

The revenue from the waste lands towards Garryowen, would be small, and the proprietors entitled to have their money laid out at their doors, where it is not yet required. Why not have two Councils—one for the town, and the other for the suburbs?

I conclude by recommending the concoctors of the petition to call a meeting, and explain the Act and their views to the public (who hardly know what they are signing) before proceeding any further in the matter.

I am, Sir, your obedient servant,
R. TAYLOR.

A NOVEL BANKRUPTCY CASE.—The Melbourne Herald of the 9th instant says:—The examination, yesterday, of one W. E. P. Welliton, an insolvent who filed his schedule in 1854, may, for unblushing effrontery, and cool, hard swearing, match with anything in the annals of criminal investigations. This interesting bankrupt failed in the year named for about £800, more or less, and, with the utmost desire to pay off his liabilities since, has contrived to wipe out just £75. He took objection to Sir George Stephen's examining him (no wonder), on the ground, forsooth, that there was sufficient money in the hand of the official assignee to pay 20s. in the pound to all the creditors who had proved in the estate. Mem.: the largest creditor's debt stands in the schedule at rather more than one-half of all the liabilities, and it was not proved. In the course of the inquiry, the insolvent stated that he had been clerk to no less than seven solicitors, two of whom were now enjoying the hospitality of Mr. Wintle. He admitted that in one employment he was to receive two-thirds of the profits of the business, and yet he was but a clerk. A most extraordinary deed was put in, by which property, stated by Sir George Stephen, when the case was called on before, to be worth £1000, and sworn as worth less than £150 by Welliton, was conveyed to the insolvent's daughter, a child of five years of age. Other matters came out of an equally colourable nature, relative to Mr. Welliton's connection with a partner who was lately fined for having an illicit still, and his interest in a station near Western Port, which at last induced the long-suffering Chief Commissioner to administer a severe rebuke. At the close of the investigation, heard, by-the-by, in the presence of a full bar of lawyers' clerks, Sir George Stephen announced that the matter would result in a criminal prosecution. Mr. Welliton, we understand, lives in excellent style at Brighton, and, according to his own account, up to a very late date, drove his two horses and a "basket trap," keeping a groom and gardener. What a happy thing it must be, to be at one and the same time a lawyer's clerk, an uncertificated bankrupt, and part owner of a station in trust for an infant!

A military camp has during the last fortnight been established between Emerald-hill and St. Kilda. There are some sixty bell tents set up, and these are inhabited by two or three companies of the 40th Regiment. The men are constantly exercised at rifle practice, under the tuition of the instructor of musketry.—Melbourne Herald.

CONVICTS OF ABORIGINES.—In the Legislative Council of Victoria, on the 9th instant, Mr. M'Combie asked the Honorable the Commissioner of Trade and Customs if the attention of the law officers of the Crown had been called to the conviction of two aborigines, "Old Man Billy," and "Young Man Billy," at Ballaarat, on the 25th ultimo; and if they are aware that the late Attorney-Generals of Victoria and New South Wales (Sir W. F. Stawell and Mr Plunkett), as well as Judge Willis, Mr. Croke, &c., have expressed the opinion that aborigines are not amenable to our laws for crimes inter se. Mr. Miller said that some provision had been made on the 2nd of this month for the protection of aborigines. He had read a letter from Mr. Thomas questioning the right to interfere with our laws in cases of "homicide inter se." He (Mr. Miller) had no doubt that opinion was correct, as far as it related to those natives who lived apart from the whites; but where the aborigines had been living with us under the protection of our laws, they were amenable to those laws.

MR. BABBAGE'S EXPLORATION.—Mr. Babbage ascertaining that there was some probability of his being recalled, has treated the Government to a game of "Catch who catch may," having packed up his traps and set out from the Elizabeth on a three month's expedition, leaving Major Warburton to follow at convenience. No doubt there are many who will rather applaud Mr. Babbage than otherwise for this movement. All we can say is we hope Major Warburton will not be drawn further in pursuit of Mr. Babbage than he would have gone in the prosecution of his own proper mission, as the "Camel Troop Carrying Company" have melted into thin air, and it might not be easy to get up a third exploring party on the principle of the two former ones. From a letter received by the Commissioner of Crown Lands it appears that Major Warburton reached Port Augusta on the 29th of September, and that the very next day he met Mr. Charles Gregory (who had been sent out to reinforce Mr. Babbage) returning towards Adelaide in company with Phibbs, one of the New South Wales exploring party. Major Warburton, however, prevailed upon them to return with him to the Elizabeth, which they reached on the 3rd of October. Some newspapers having found their way to the camp, Mr. Babbage had resolved upon anticipating the action of the Government by pushing on without further delay, and when Major Warburton reached the camp, he found that Mr. Babbage had quitted it eight days before, taking with him four men, eleven horses, and provisions for a three months' trip. The Major lost no time in sending off in pursuit—Mr. Charles Gregory and one of the Major's men being despatched the same day with Mr. Babbage's recal in their possession. The description given of the camp on the Elizabeth is, from all we have heard, exceedingly amusing. Half Hindley-street might have been supposed to have located there, and the quantity of useless stores appears to have quite bewildered the gallant Major, who knew not how to dispose of his newly-found wealth. It was impossible to send them back to Thompson's station (100 miles distant), as it took two drays three months to bring up only a portion of the luggage, &c., from the Beda to the Elizabeth, a distance of sixty miles. Consequently Major Warburton resolved to sell what he could, and to "plant" what was unsaleable. It appears that Mr. Forster and some other settlers are forming a station upon the new country discovered by Mr. Stuart, and Major Warburton hopes to dispose of his miscellaneous collection to those gentlemen. Amongst the items to be disposed of are 100 sheep, which Major Warburton's views enable him to dispense with. It was the intention of Major Warburton, at the date of writing his letter (October 5th), to send three men and four horses immediately to Adelaide. One man of Mr. Babbage's party would remain at the camp until Mr. Babbage's own return, when the remaining men and several more horses would be forwarded to town, making altogether—Mr. Babbage, seven men, and fourteen horses returned by Major Warburton's direction. The Major's own party consists of himself, Mr. Gregory, Phibbs, Baker, Sergeant-Major Hall, and Trooper Coward. They have six saddle horses, and twelve pack horses, and are provisioned for four months' absence. On leaving the Elizabeth the intention was to proceed first to Stuart's Creek and thence to try for a passage across Lake Torrens, into the country discovered by Parry. Should this attempt be successful, a very important step will be gained, as a short route of communication will be opened between the northern settled countries and the countries discovered by Mr. Stuart. A route of this description would entirely obviate the necessity of traversing the inhospitable country lying between Port Augusta and the Elizabeth, and would certainly be a discovery of real value. Another portion of the Major's purpose is to start from Stuart's Creek, and see if possible where all the creeks running northwards empty themselves. The Major hopes to do all this in two months, but his movements of course are dependent upon those of Mr. Babbage, who may not choose to be caught, and who may return to the Elizabeth with information to the gallant Major that all the work is done, and that it might be better to return together.—S. A. Advertiser.

The donations in aid of the Dramatic College amount now to rather more than £1100. The promised annual subscriptions exceed £170.

CAPTURE OF A NATIVE BEAR.—One of those curious animals, native bears, was captured early on Thursday morning, in the lagoon at the end of Auburn-street. A man named Monks, accompanied by his brother-in-law, was passing by the lagoon, when they saw the creature in the water, apparently afraid to advance or retreat. They had two dogs with them, who made at the bear; one of them got pretty well squeezed by the latter. Monks went into the water, and, while the bear was occupied with the dogs, managed to slip his belt over poor Bruin and captured him. He has him now in confinement. This is a fine specimen of this now somewhat rare animal.—Goulburn Chronicle.

THE SEARCH FOR GOLD.—Our townsmen have entered with some spirit into the project for supplying rations and tools to practical diggers for the purpose of having the most likely places round Yass prospected. The quartz reef near Manton's Creek, alluded to in our last, is the spot first selected, and two men have for the last three of four days been employed by the committee in digging for the main reef, in order to have it tested. Gold has been found in several pieces of quartz; and the men now at work express their belief that the quartz taken indiscriminately would, if crushed, yield from 2½ ozs. to 3 ozs. to the ton. Sanguine expectations are entertained that the reef will yet afford profitable employment to many. The progress made to develop its value is but slight; but a week or two hence we hope to be able to report something satisfactory. A good and permanent supply of water exists within three quarters of a mile of the reef.—Yass Courier.
